ABOARD THE S. S. EUROPA AT SEA, Dec. 19.—Sixteen men, perilously near death on the storm-tossed freighter Sisto, a small Norwegian ship of only 1100 tons, were rescued today by a gallant lifeboat crew from the passenger liner New York.

In high seas, the Sisto's crew was seen from the sinking freighter last night, while four vessels, including the luxurious Europa, stood by playing searchlights on the scene. Virtually every person on the Europa watched anxiously the progress of the New York's lifeboat and to and from the freighter, and there was a great shout of joy as the lifeboat reached the side of the New York in safety.

It had been a precarious trip for the small rescue boat, for the rolling sea tossed the craft like a bobbing cork. It reached the side of the stricken Sisto, however, and the passengers of the crew, weary from hours of fighting the storm, dropped quickly into the lifeboat.

Then began the even more difficult trip back to New York, for the time the boat carried an added load. Although lights from the surrounding vessels pierced the darkness, there were times when the Sisto was scarcely visible from the Europa and only an occasional light was seen on the sea.

The rescue of the 16 men of the Sisto was accomplished apparently in the most heroic manner, for the small vessel was in a hopeless condition when the Europa reached the scene of the disaster, about 300 miles off the coast of Ireland.

The Sisto's rudder had been lost and it was useless thing, her superstructure had been washed away by the giant waves, when the Europa launched its lifeboats.
The freighter was further endangered by its shifting cargo of lumber, which had caused it to list heavily.

The Sisto was left in a sinking condition, with one feeble light left, and it seemed only a matter of hours before the ship would be lost.

The New York, a Hamburg-American Line ship, continued on its way to Cherbourg, snowed out of the Sisto had been taken aboard.
The Europa and the other two ships at the scene, the Cunard liner Star liner Aurania, and the passenger liner Mobilio also received their courses.

Tons of Oil Poured on Water.
The Sisto's lifeboat had been seen by the Sisto for more than an hour, prevented by the heavy waves from taking the crew off the freighter. Tons of oil poured on the water by the Mobilio did not prevent the water and the tanker sent out calls for assistance.
The Europa brought the New York, the Aurania and the Europa.

When the Europa turned its prow westward, the Sisto, 140 miles away, was seen in evening dress bundled up in heavy clothing and blankets, and waited to see the stricken freighter.

Later in the distance they caught sight of another ship hurrying to the rescue. As the Europa neared the Sisto's location, two other ships were seen, the Mobilio and the Aurania.

The four ships were about half way from the Sisto when the New York sent her lifeboat overboard. They dared not come closer because of the high seas.

The New York, a ship of 21,867 tons, is under the command of Capt. Fitz Kruse, commodore of the German-American fleet. She is bound from New York to Hamburg.
The Sisto ran into distress in the same general vicinity in other vessels were hit by the storm, one the British liner Borthwick which was abandoned.

6.8-Inch Snow Heaviest In St. Louis in Ten Years

Traffic Delayed, Trains and Busses Arrive
Late, Plane Service Halts—Highways Treacherous But Not Impassable.

A wet, clinging snow fell steadily through the night and this morn-
white blanket 6.8 inches deep, the heaviest fall in any 24-hour period since March, 1924.

The snow piled thickly on branches of trees and bushes, and overhead wires were heavily weighted. As the temperature hovered not far from the freezing point, the snow turned quickly into slush in districts where foot or vehicle traffic was heavy.

Traffic was hampered, but got through without prolonged delay.
Through the night the Public Service Co. had 37 sweepers running over its tracks, and 15 trucks and scrapers worked to clear the snow from car and bus stops. About 250 men were engaged in salting switches and throwing gravel at stopping places.

The city Street Department, beginning before midnight, put 13
snow plows to work on Delmar, Washington, Lindell boulevards and Market street, clearing snow from these thoroughfares east of Grand boulevard. Later the city had 400 men, 112 trucks and six wagons at work to clear the snow from principal intersections. Crews from the sewer, paving and other city departments were drafted to supplement the usual street-cleaning force.

Trains, under the double handicap of the heavy holiday mail and the snow, moved into Union Station generally about a half hour late. Two Missouri-Pacific trains from the West were delayed for about two hours by a derailed freight train near Pacific terminal.

Busses from other cities reached their terminals here from an hour to an hour and a half behind schedules.

Airplane schedules to the north were canceled, but in other directions the planes came through, sometimes an hour or more late.
Under the weight of a heavy burden of snow a portion of the roof of the Flying Trapeze Tavern at 2807 Bellevue avenue, Maplewood, collapsed shortly before 4 o'clock this morning, causing damage estimated by police at $3500.

Police stations reported an increase in the number of homeless men who sought shelter for the night and the two shelters maintained by the St. Louis Relief Committee, Chestnut Lodge and Ozam shelter, were well filled.

At 9 a. m., when the trap was sprung, there was a crowd of about 300 persons outside the prison.
Two policemen paced back and forth keeping them moving.

A small black flag was hoisted over the penitentiary to signify that the death sentence had been carried out. A notice of the execution also was posted on the prison gates. It consisted of two papers, one signed by the Under-Sheriff and other witnesses, and one by the prison doctor, saying that he had made his examination and found that she was dead.

Efforts to Save Her Life.
Mrs. Major was the first woman executed in England in eight years.
The jury which convicted her had recommended clemency.

No one in Hull seemed to take much interest in her case except Lord Mayor Stark, as Mrs. Major's home was in the little village of Kirby-on-Bain. The Lord Mayor or sent an urgent appeal for clemency to Buckingham Palace.

"For the sake of humanity," he wired the Home Secretary, "I implore you to reconsider your decision (refusing clemency). The heartfelt plea contained in this telegram is that of the thousands of women and children who are suffering, and particularly of the entire female population of this great city.
The impending execution is most distressing to the thousands of women who live near the prison."

The Home Secretary's office replied: "The decision of the Home Secretary is already known." The office had previously reported that it could find no grounds for clemency.

Lord Mayor Stark said: "A reprieve was granted to a Greek when the Duke of Kent was married," he said. "Surely the same thing could have been done on the eve of Christmas, in the case of one of our own women."

A petition from Mrs. Major's home town, signed by 105 of the 250 inhabitants, was presented late Monday after the reprieve had been denied.

Mrs. Mary Hatfield, first woman member of the Hull City Council, telegraphed an appeal direct to King George.

Arrested During Funeral.
Mrs. Major was arrested while her husband's funeral service was in progress, as the result of an anonymous letter sent to authorities accusing her.

She had a son, 15 years old, and a daughter, 9, living with her aged father in Kirby-on-Bain. The father and her son visited her last night.
At 8:30 p. m. watchers saw the governor of the prison, Capt. Ed Roberts, walk from his home across the street and knock at the prison gates. Two warders swung them slowly open and Roberts entered.

A few minutes later two prison chaplains, Canon Arthur Berry and the Rev. W. M. Fraser, arrived in a taxicab and were admitted.

This was all the watchers outside saw of the proceeding until the black flag was raised this morning.

The chaplains remained in Mrs.
Major's cell until the warders appeared to take her to the gallows.
With the Rev. Mr. Fraser leading the way and reciting prayers, she was removed to the execution shed, a few yards away. The entire proceeding required only a few minutes.

In North Yorkshire, Lydia Binks is under sentence of death with Frederick Rushworth for the murder of their baby, which had been buried alive. The jury also recommended mercy in her case and several appeals for clemency have been made.

4 BEHEADED IN CHINA AFTER MISSION KILLING

Another Alleged Communist Captured—How American's Baby Was Saved.

(Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press.)
WUHU, Anhwei Province, China,
Dec. 19.—Four-month-old Helen Priscilla Stam is being cared for in the Wuhu General Hospital while Chinese authorities seek to punish the Chinese who are alleged to have killed the baby's American missionary parents, Mr. and Mrs. J.
C. Stam. Five Communists were captured and four were beheaded at once.

Dr. C. K. Lo, a Chinese Christian pastor, told how he had saved the child from death when Communists raided the Stam mission at Tsin-tingh Dec. 7. He said Chinese women had nursed the child to keep her alive while he sought his wife brought the baby 70 miles on foot from the mission.

Dr. Lo said he had arrived at Tsin-tingh the day after Mr. and Mrs. Stam had been executed and learned that the baby was still alive.
"The townsfolk were afraid to give information," he said, "but finally an old lady pointed to a deserted house. I entered and heard the crying of an infant. It had been there at least 24 hours without care or food."

"I took the infant and found a Chinese mother among a group of sympathetic persons. She volunteered to nurse the child. I got my wife and our own baby and the Stam infant and placed the two children in a rice basket. Then we began the 70-mile walk to the nearest town, en route to Wuhu."

"We carried the basket containing the infants, and mothers along the way nursed Helen Priscilla. At the end of a 40-mile hike, we entered a village where my wife found a tin of powdered milk, which she purchased. Her own baby was born in the Wuhu General Hospital, and while there my wife learned how to prepare powdered milk."

"With this knowledge, she put little orphaned Helen on a schedule of three-hour feedings and Helen thrived. We then pushed on toward Wuhu, giving our infant charges within the rice basket the best care possible under such difficult conditions."

MRS. RUMSEY OF NRA DIES OF FOX HUNT INJURY

Hurt Nov. 17 When Horse Fell at Fence—Head of Consumers' Council, Junior League Founder.

COMBINED SPORTS AND PHILANTHROPY

Miss Perkins at Bedside at End—Funeral Service for Daughter of E. H. Harriman Today.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Mrs.
Mary Harriman Rumsey, chairman of the NRA Consumers' Advisory Board and philanthropist, died here last night at Emergency Hospital as the result of injuries suffered Nov. 17 while fox hunting in Virginia.

Mrs. Rumsey was hunting with the Piedmont hounds when her horse struck a fence and fell. The animal pinned her to the ground, fracturing her right leg and several ribs.

Nationally known as the founder of the Junior League, before she came into prominence in connection with NRA, Mrs. Rumsey had found time to combine love of sports with interest in philanthropies. She was considered one of the best cross-country riders among the women of the fox-hunting set.

E. H. Harriman's Daughter.
Mrs. Rumsey was the daughter of the late Edward H. Harriman, railway magnate. A patron of the arts, she was married to Charles Cary Rumsey, American sculptor.
He died in 1922.

Mrs. Rumsey founded the first Junior League chapter in New York in 1901. Since then the organization has spread to virtually every large city in the United States.

Her varied activities included ownership of a string of newspapers in the South, organization of the Eastern Livestock Co-operative Association, development of the Emergency Exchange Association and a post as director of the American Farm Association.

Through her association with the NRA Consumers' Advisory unit, Mrs. Rumsey was on the victorious side of a policy disagreement with Prof. William F. Ogburn, nationally known economist, which resulted in the latter's resignation.

Friend of Miss Perkins.
Mrs. Rumsey was a sister of William Averell Harriman, chairman of the board of the Union Pacific Railroad, and himself connected with NRA. She was a personal friend of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Secretary of Labor Perkins, who lived with her.

Besides her home in Georgetown,
she also maintained a large estate near Middleburg, Va., and another at Sands Point, Long Island.

She is survived by one daughter,
Mary A. H. Rumsey, and two sons,
P. Bronson H. Rumsey and Charles
C. Rumsey.

The funeral will be held at St.
Thomas' Episcopal Church here at 4:30 p. m. today and interment will be at Arden, N. Y., tomorrow.

Secretary Perkins, with members of Mrs. Rumsey's family, were at the funeral. She died.

Mrs. Roosevelt canceled an engagement to attend a morning musicals, one of the outstanding social events of the year, which Mrs.
Woodrow Wilson, Mrs. William Howard Taft and Mrs. Dolly Gannett were to attend, and also put off an annual trip to New York for her annual Christmas appearances at charity events in order to attend funeral services for Mrs. Rumsey.

'HEALTH SYSTEM' OPERATORS ARRESTED ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Former Patient Has to Have Leg Amputated and Investigation of Treatment Follows.

By the Associated Press.
CUMBERLAND, Md., Dec. 19.—
Two operators of a "health system" here were arrested on charges of assault yesterday after a patient they treated found it necessary to have his leg amputated.

Physicians said the patient, Clinton C. Slade, 46 years old, a clongrocer, might lose his other leg. They said the patient was diabetic and the hot oil treatments he received caused the flesh to peel from his legs, after which infection set in.

Robert Miller and Charles Watson, operators of the establishment, were arrested after the case had been reported by the County Medical Society.

HUNG JURY IN TRIAL OF MAN FOR ATTEMPT TO POISON WIFE

Judge Commits Virginia Church Worker to Hospital for Mental Observation.

By the Associated Press.
FREDERICKSBURG, Va., Dec.
19.—The jury trying Edward C.
Bell, Baptist deacon accused of attempting to poison his wife, failed to reach a verdict, after six and a half hours' deliberation last night, but Judge Frederick W. Coleman committed Bell to the Southwestern State Hospital at Marion for "care and observation."

Judge Coleman directed that the hospital report to the Court from time to time on Bell's mental condition. In effect the order accomplished what would have been done had the jury found Bell insane.

It was explained that, should Bell be declared sane by the hospital authorities, he could be returned here for retrial on the indictment.

PRESIDENT APPROVES CHICAGO ANTI-TOY PISTOL CAMPAIGN

2000 Pupils Burn "Weapons" in Bonfire as Result of Movement.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—The anti-toy pistol movement in the Chicago public schools has been approved by President Roosevelt. Mrs. Rose Duroso de Simone, who originated it, said yesterday she had received a letter of commendation from the President.

Twenty-five more public schools have joined the movement, she said.
It is being supported by the Parent-Teacher Association.

"People are beginning to realize that letting boys develop gangster habits by playing with toy pistols and guns must be stopped," Mrs.
De Simone said.

On Dec. 11, 2000 Ryerson School pupils burned their "weapons" in a

JAPAN TAKES FIRST STEP TO CALL OFF 5-5-3 TREATY

Tokio Government "Pre-

Situations" as May Arise, Declares Baron Kiichiro Hiranuma, Spokesman.

By the Associated Press.
TOKIO, Dec. 19.—The Japanese Government acted today to scrap the Washington Naval Treaty and expressed confidence in its "readiness to meet any situation which might arise" as a result.

The Privy Council recommended abrogation of the limitation pact to Emperor Hirohito, whose speedy approval is expected. The action in effect constituted abrogation.

Speaking for the Privy Council, Baron Kiichiro Hiranuma, its vice-president, said: "The Imperial Government desires continuation of clauses of the Washington Treaty relating to limitation of fortifications and naval bases in the Pacific Ocean, but if such clauses are terminated, the Government is prepared to cope with such a situation."

To Seek New Treaty.
Assurances were given that the Government would strive to conclude a new naval treaty replacing the Washington treaty, with its 5-5-3 ratio odds to Japan—a new treaty guaranteeing Japan "national security."

Official notification probably will not be given the United States until the week between Christmas and New Year's, although the actual date was not set. A letter of notification will be cabled to Ambassador Salts in Washington after it is drafted at a Cabinet session Friday.

Many Japanese leaders regarded the step as the most momentous this country has taken since it entered the World War.

Through the denunciation, the Washington treaty will expire Dec.
31, 1936. For 13 years the pact has held naval programs of the world's great sea powers in check.

PETITION FOR STAY DENIED

But Parent Gets Right to Be With Daughter on Holidays Without Jeopardizing Case.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Mrs.
Bernard Vanderbilt won a reverse-English decision yesterday, obtaining the right to have her 10-year-old daughter, Gloria, with her on Christmas day. But the Appellate division denied her petition for a stay of Supreme Court Justice Carew's recent order awarding principal custody of the child to her parental aunt, the wealthy Mrs. Harvey Payne Whitney.

The court predicated its denial of the petition on the condition that Mrs. Whitney stipulate that Mrs. Vanderbilt would not be prejudiced if she remained herself of privileges allowed her in Justice Carew's decision. Such a stipulation is what Mrs. Vanderbilt had hoped to win, according to a statement issued by her attorney, Nathan Burkan. He said Mrs. Vanderbilt was "extremely grateful" she could have Christmas day and week-ends with her child without having her case. So far the mother has exercised none of her privileges for fear of waiting her right of appeal.

Child's Testimony Disclosed.

In handing down its denial, the Appellate Division made public testimony disclosing the heiress' own story as the child told it to Justice Carew during the long secret habus corpus fight waged over her.
The child was disclosed as making a fearful plea not to be put in custody of her mother, she said the court and attorneys that she always feared her mother and hated her in her heart.

"This was a dirty, mean, low, contemptible racket," she said. "It was one of the worst in the city."
Anthony Volpe, said by investigators to have been the woman's chief agent, was held in $3000 bail.
Police said more than 1400 persons paid deposits for hard coal to the woman's agents, who offered it at $5 and $6 a ton. Several deliveries were made. The complaints so far received "have only scratched the surface," they asserted.

James Dadamo testified at Miss Mecca's hearing that he sold coal for her for a commission of 50 cents a ton. He said she instructed him to quote President Roosevelt as stating "people are not going to be cold this winter." He carried a card which "certified" him as "authorized to solicit orders for the Philadelphia Emergency Board
Fuel Fund," he said.

Several victims testified they understood the coal was offered them at cut prices as part of a Federal relief plan for the holidays.

families were alleged to have been defrauded, are held in heavy bail while police receive more complaints from householders.

Miss Marie Mecca, 35 years old, named by police as the head of the alleged swindlers, faintly yesterday as a Magistrate set bail at $10,000.
As she stood before the Magistrate, Assistant District Attorney John A. Boyle denounced her "as a

RULES RADIO STATION'S USE OF NEWS IS NOT PIRATING

Federal Judge at Seattle, Wash., Dismisses Writ Obtained by Associated Press Against KVOZ.

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 19.—Judge
John C. Bowen in dismissing a temporary restraining order obtained by the Associated Press against Radio Station KVOZ of Bellingham, Wash., yesterday, held that use of news by radio stations "does not involve the pirating by one news gathering and distribution agency of news reports of another such agency, as in the case of Associated Press versus another news service." Station KVOZ had been restrained from reading Associated Press and local news items from Bellingham and other Associated Press member newspapers.

Judge Bowen said: "This court holds that when general news furnished by complainant (the Associated Press), or local news claimed to be under its control as regards publication, has been printed in a regular issue of complainant's member newspapers and that issue has been, in the ordinary course, published and distributed to the public, such news reports from that moment belong to the public, to use them for all purposes except for sale by a rival news agency to its news publishing members."

In a similar case in Sioux Falls, S. D., a Federal court granted an injunction against a radio station and ruled news had property value for 24 hours after publication.

of natural causes.

Police, who were called to the houseboat by neighbors who saw the glass in the houseboat door broken and thought "there might be trouble," questioned Abney, who had been drinking, and whom they found on the floor, fully clothed. He was released at noon, after a Coroner's physician found that death was due to several chronic ailments.

SON'S STEPSONS GET ONE-FIFTH OF F. W. HILL ESTATE

Supreme Court of Missouri Issues Mandate in Favor of Two Brothers, Paul V. and Lloyd R.

Under a mandate of a decision by the Missouri Supreme Court, filed in Circuit Court today, Paul
V. Hill, 22 years old, and Lloyd R.
Hill, 27, brothers, were declared to be entitled to a one-fifth interest in the $200,000 trust estate of Frank W. Hill, 6234 Arundel place, a contractor, who died in 1918. Their interest is derived as heirs of their stepfather, Frank W. Hill Jr., who died four years ago. He was a son of the contractor.

The elder Hill, in his will, had provided that his estate was to be held in trust by the St. Louis Union Trust Co. for the benefit of his four daughters, Mrs. Edna Schwarz, Mrs. Kate Comins, Miss Susan and Miss Mabel Hill, and the son, Frank. In case of death of any beneficiary the share of such decedent, was to be distributed free from trust to his or her heirs-at-law, the will specified.

About two months before his death, Hill Jr. formally admitted the Hill brothers, who were both married. They are the sons of Hill's widow by a former marriage, the father being John E.
Payne, who was divorced from Mrs.
Hill.

Heirs or Blood Heirs-at-Law.
The adopted sons made a demand for the one-fifth share or $40,000 allotted as their stepfather's interest in the trust estate, asserting they were entitled to the inheritance as his legal heirs. The claim was opposed by Hill's four sisters, who asserted it was the intention of their father that his beneficiaries should be "blood heirs-at-law." For that reason, they said, they were entitled to the brother's share.

On account of the adverse claims the trustee filed a suit to construe the will. Circuit Judge Hartmann ruled in favor of the sisters and excluded the Hill brothers from participation. The latter appealed to the Supreme Court.

Their attorney, Claud D. Hall, contended that the heirs-at-law by specifying blood heirs, and the court, he declared, was without power to speculate as to testator's intention. In the absence of such limitation his clients, he said, were entitled to participate, being heirs-at-law as defined by the Missouri adoption statute.

Voluntary Adoption.
The Hills live with their mother,
Mrs. Mary Hill, 5958A Barmter avenue. Mrs. Hill testified that her husband adopted her sons because by so doing he could do something financially for them. She said he did it voluntarily without any suggestion from her.

The Supreme Court's decision, written by Judge Tipton, directs the lower court to reverse its decision and enter judgment in favor of appellants. Their inheritance will be divided equally between them without any trust restriction.

Man's Foot Crushed by Train.

SEDALIA, Mo., Dec. 19.—Charles Pettit, 56 years old, formerly an engineer at Jefferson City, suffered a crushed right foot when he fell beneath a passenger train he was attempting to board here today.
Physicians said it would be necessary to amputate the foot. Pettit recently had been proprietor of a restaurant in Jefferson City.

There are six points of similarity. Both women lived in the same house and were injured (Mrs. Parker's skull was broken in five places, Mrs. Burlingame's was injured in more than 40 places).
Both bodies were found in the living rooms. The front doors were open. Both doors were open. There was no apparent motive for murder in either case. Neither was there any indication of robbery. Both bodies were covered with newspapers.

WITH BODY TO POLICE

Maine Man Says They Were to Have Been Married but Her Family Objected.

By the Associated Press.
AUBURN, Me., Dec. 19.—Willie Bohilette, 25 years old, drove to police headquarters yesterday and told officers "I just shot my girl friend." In his automobile the police found the body of Miss Joan Asselin, 17. She had been shot in the breast.

Bohilette, a crippled, unemployed taxicab driver, was held in jail on a murder charge. He was quoted by the police as saying he had driven with the girl to a lonely place six miles from Lewiston and there shot her.

Bohilette and the girl, a shoe worker, had been friends for four years. He told the police her family objected to their marriage. Bothlette can walk only by grasping his ankle with his hands.

"We had no argument," he was quoted as saying. "I shot her and never will tell why. It was one of the other of us had to die."

"I was supposed to marry her next summer. I told her all her folks were between us and she never would get married. I had a .38 caliber revolver. Her father had a box of 38 shells and she thought me one. If she had had two I would have shot myself."

"She had the bullet in her handkerchief and she put it in the pistol. I took the pistol and put it in the pocket of the car on my side and we talked a while and I shot her."

Bohilette said the girl was "the best friend I ever had."

He demonstrated how she shot her, putting a chamber skin over the pistol and firing through it, to prevent powder burns.

Bohilette's statement to police indicated he would plead that he and the girl had entered into a suicide agreement.

DEPRIVED OF BLUE EAGLE,
SAYS IT NEVER HAD ONE

Representative of M. & G. Shoe Co. Declared It Could Not Meet Code Conditions.

The M. & G. Shoe Co., 3618 North Nineteenth street, was deprived of the right to use the blue eagle by the NRA, for alleged violation of wage and hour provisions of the shoe code, according to a dispatch from Washington yesterday.

A representative of the company, who declined to give his name, said it never had a blue eagle, as it could not undertake to do what large manufacturers agreed to under the code. He said the company had only half a dozen employees, making children's shoes.

CONVICTED OF BEATING BABY

Man Said to Have Lifted Child by Hair.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 19.—George Jagers, 44 years old, unemployed miner of Bingham, Utah, was found guilty of assault and battery in connection with the brutal beating of 21-month-old Clara Louise Cobb, by a jury in City Court here yesterday. Jagers will be sentenced Thursday. The maximum penalty is six months in jail and a $299 fine.

Mrs. Flora Cobb, the child's mother, and Jagers' housekeeper, left the baby in his custody at Bingham Dec. 6. When she returned home the child was suffering with severe bruises on the face and body and part of her hair had been pulled out. Witnesses at the trial testified they saw Jagers lift the baby by the hair and beat her. Jagers testified the child was injured when he fell several times while carrying her.

NAMED ON DAIRY COMMISSION

Appointment of Ben W. Hess of Marine, Ill., to represent non-member producers on the St. Louis Dairy Commission was announced today by Fred L. Shipley, market administrator for the St. Louis milk shed. The commission will meet Friday.

The St. Louis Dairy Commission supervises enforcement of the city's milk ordinance. On the commission are three representatives each of producers, distributors and consumers, and Health Commissioner Bredeck.

TWO HUNTERS CHARGED WITH LAW VIOLATION

A. B. Wallace and D. L. Gardner Accused of Shooting Doves Over Baited Ground.

Information charging violation of the migratory bird act were filed in Federal Court Monday against A. B. Wallace, president of the Wallace Penell Co., and Dozier L. Gardner, vice-president of the St. Louis Casket Co., after District Attorney Blanton had received affidavits from the Department of Agriculture stating they had illegally shot doves over baited grounds Sept. 2, 1933.

Surprised at the charges and the length of time that had elapsed since the date of the offense complained of, Wallace and Gardner consulted Ethan A. H. Shipley, attorney, frequently their hunting companion. On going to the District Attorney's office, Shipley was unable to find a copy of the regulation which his clients were charged with violating.

From Harry Barmier, Federal Game Warden, whose name appeared on the affidavit accompanying the information, Shipley obtained a copy of the Department of Agriculture regulation preventing shooting of doves from a distance less than 100 yards of a baited ground. The date on the printed regulation was "September, 1933," but Barmier said it had been in force since 1931.

Dry Lake Bed Baited.

According to Barmier's affidavit, the offense was committed at Wallace's shooting establishment in St. Charles County where a dry lake bed had been baited with wheat and salt.

Wallace today said he recalled Barmier's visit more than a year ago, but expressed surprise at the issuance of the information. At the time, Wallace said, Barmier informed him and Gardner that it was illegal to shoot doves while nearer than 100 yards to the bait. Their ready compliance with the law on receiving this information, Wallace added, appeared to satisfy Barmier and no prosecution was anticipated.

Barmier said he had gone to St. Charles County because of complaints that the dove shooting regulation was being violated. He said he told Wallace and Gardner that he would be compelled to make a report of the violation. In doing so, he said, he related that the offenders were not wilfully violating the law and that they conscientiously made an attempt to keep themselves informed on game laws.

The game warden was instructed to proceed in the regular manner, however, and made affidavits last May 14, advising this action, Barmier explained, because of the death of former Gov. Frederick D. Gardner, father of Dozier Gardner. Barmier Expresses Regret.

Barmier agreed that it was difficult for hunters to keep informed on new regulations under the migratory bird treaty act. On receiving new regulations, he said he had them posted in sporting goods stores and in the postoffice, mailing copies to persons who requested them. Inasmuch as his relations with Wallace and Gardner had been entirely friendly, he said, he expressed regret that he had caused them difficulties.

Shipley said he would write the Department of Agriculture leaving a standing order for all revised regulations so he might personally mail them to hunting clubs in the district.

The dove regulation was revised this year and now prohibits shooting them on any baited premises.

ST. LOUIS' CLAIM OF $69,000
FOR CARE OF INSANE UPHeld

Attorney-General's Department Says City Should Get $8 a Month Per Patient.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 19.—The Attorney-General's Department yesterday sustained a claim by the City of St. Louis for payment of $69,000 by the State for the maintenance of patients in the St. Louis city sanitarium for the months of July, August and September of this year. The ruling was made in an opinion issued to W. Ed Jameson, president of the Board of Managers of State eleemosynary institutions.

The 1933 Legislature, however, appropriated only $50,000 for payment of such claims by the city for the biennial period of 1933 and 1934. No payments have been made from the appropriation so far. The appropriation was made under an act passed in 1931, which provides that if a county or city maintains from public funds a hospital for the care of the insane, and if the hospital facilities are approved by the Board of Managers of State eleemosynary institutions, the State shall contribute $8 a month toward the maintenance of each patient.

Assistant Attorney-General Gilbert Lamb, who wrote the opinion, said that if the account rendered by the city was correct, "We see no reason why the St. Louis city sanitarium is not entitled to receive $8 a month per patient out of general revenue funds of the State, or any other funds which may be provided or set aside for that purpose."

Policeman Fires at Negro.

Patrolman Carl House, North Market Street District, fired five shots at a Negro, who fled when he sought to question him for annoying two girls at Ninth street and Cass avenue last night. Apparently none of the shots took effect.

KARL A. BARTHEL, SOUTH SIDE
DRUGGIST, OBTAINS DIVORCE

His Charge That Wife Was Married to Another Man at Time of Wedding Is Withdrawn.

Karl A. Barthel, druggist at 5518 South Kingshighway, obtained a divorce in Court of Domestic Relations yesterday from Mrs. Lucille M. Barthel, 524 Christy boulevard. The divorce was ordered by Judge Kirkwood on the ground of general indignities, after an amended petition, alleging that Mrs. Barthel was married to another man when she became Barthel's wife, was withdrawn by Rodowe H. Abeken, his attorney. She filed an entry of appearance but did not contest. Barthel and the former Mrs. Lucille Throckmorton were married in Chicago, May 5, 1924. They separated last year. Records of the Court of Domestic Relations show it was alleged in the petition withdrawn by Abeken, that her former husband, Chelsea Ray Throckmorton, obtained a divorce from her June 19, 1928, four years after her marriage to Barthel.

Mgr. Cicognani Escorted
Under Canopy of Lights Through Snowstorm to Welcome at Cathedral.

Stars fell on Lindell boulevard. Or so it seemed to those who, from either direction, approached the long block of Lindell, from Taylor to Newstead avenues, through last night's snowstorm.

Seen from Kingshighway, the canopy of twinkling little lights was a low-hung Milky Way. A nearer view, without impairing the beauty of the scene, distinguished the glistening bulbs of yellow and white, the papers, which in many lines overhung the street. This, and the more brilliant though less lasting light furnished by High School youths with flares, stationed along the block, were the outdoor part of the welcome extended by the Catholic Archdiocese of St. Louis to the Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, Apostolic Delegate to the United States, here for the golden sacerdotal jubilee of Archbishop John J. Glennon.

Boys as "Swiss Guards." On either side of the broad walk in front of the Cathedral were Latin School pupils, beardless boys in the classrooms, but here adorned with square-cut beards, and decked in the best obtaining copies of the uniforms of the Swiss Guard, which attends the Pope in the Vatican. They wore helmets, coats of mail—or perhaps they were just mail-order coats of silver cloth—velvet knee-breeches and white stockings. Their flares, which gave a purplish light, were on candlesticks well above their heads.

Through this line, and through the whirl of heavy white snowflakes, the robed envoy of Pope Pius XI was escorted, after the short ride from the Archbishop's residence, to and into the Cathedral. At the threshold, the Archbishop awaited him, and there was a ceremonial pause, then the thick odor of incense, the stately words of a Latin greeting, and the richness of organ and choral music.

In the slow march up the central aisle, Knights of St. Gregory were the bearers of the canopy under which the Papal Delegate walked. William L. Igou, president of the Police Board, and Luke E. Hart, lawyer, were the bearers of the forward pillars supporting the silken covering. The attending laymen were in full dress.

Archbishop's Address. Entering the sanctuary, the Archbishop, the Delegate, visiting Bishops and Monsignori, and a train of priests and clerics, knelt before the altar. Then, as soon as all were seated, Archbishop Glennon rose from the throne at the right, and delivered his address of welcome.

He greeted the visitor as "Archbishop of an ancient see." Mgr. Cicognani is titular archbishop of Laodicea, one of the seven church centers of Asia Minor named in the first chapter of the Apocalypse. He continued with a tribute to the Pope, "who has attached all hearts to him, standing before the world preaching a faith and hope that are divine, and a charity that is both human and divine. He has sought to lessen the sorrows of the poor, he has sought to stabilize the Christian home, to build up the individual conscience, and the national conscience as well. Surely, one who is the representative of the august Pontiff of Rome deserves the honor and esteem of all, whether Catholics or not.

Apostolic Delegate and Archbishop

"But you come also as a personal friend, and this, too, has brought this large congregation here, at a time when Christmas preparations keep our people at home, and in the threatening weather of the last few hours, when we have seen the falling snow, a type of the Church of Christ, which comes to bless men, and to retain forever the purity of Him who created it."

Praise From Delegate. Mgr. Cicognani arose from the opposite throne to respond. Speaking readily in English, the Italian prelate praised the loyalty of the faith of St. Louis Catholics, and their devotion to "Our Holy Father." He praised, too, the Cathedral as a shrine of religion and art, and touched on the occasion of the present celebration, the completion of Archbishop Glennon's half-century as priest, Bishop and Archbishop. "May God preserve your Archbishop many and many years," he concluded.

These followed the ceremony of Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, conducted by Auxiliary Bishop Winkelmann, with music by a large choir of men and boys. A processional escorted the Delegate and the Archbishop back to the cathedral, and they returned, under the canopy of lights, to the archiepiscopal residence.

Talking with reporters soon after his arrival last evening, Delegate Cicognani showed knowledge of the history of St. Louis, and of the institutions built by the diocese in the 31 years of Archbishop Glennon's administration. "Your cathedral is an especial attraction to me," he said, "since its Byzantine architecture recalls San Marco in Venice, and the old Church of St. Vitale near Ravenna." The Delegate is a native of Brisighella, a town at the foot of the Apennines in the northeast of Florence and in the Province of Ravenna.

First Official Visit. This, he explained, is his first official visit to St. Louis, as he has served less than two years as Delegate, but he has been in this city twice before, once on the occasion of a large parade of the Holy Name Society.

The Delegate is short, portly and in his early fifties. His heavy black hair has no trace of gray. His manner is one of smiling amiability, and his use of English is unhesitating.

Soon after his arrival at the Archbishop's residence, Mgr. Cicognani accompanied the Archbishop, Bishop Winkelmann, Mgr. Crane and Mgr. Donnelly to Ozanam Shelter, the old Mullanphy Hospital on Montgomery street, near North Grand boulevard. More than 1200 men, who live at the Shelter, met the party and listened to short talks by the Delegate and the Archbishop.

"As representative of His Holiness, the Pope," Mgr. Cicognani said, "I give my first blessing in St. Louis to you. Hardly a day passes that the Holy Father does not give his attention to the work for the poor, and the developing of solutions for the problems of this trying time."

The Archbishop spoke briefly, and the men, many of whom were non-Catholics, gave the visitors a hearty cheer and a chorus of "God bless you!"

The party went also to the Home for the Aged maintained by the Little Sisters of the Poor, at 2209 Elbert street. One of the inmates of the Home welcomed the visitors in the chapel, and the Archbishop and the Delegate responded. "I, myself, am getting to be one of the old folks," the Archbishop remarked in his talk, and that is why I suggested that our guests come here, instead of accepting other invitations for this evening."

Mgr. Cicognani's name, pronounced Chee-cone-yah-nee, is pronounced the third syllable. His first name, Amleto, is Italian for the name of Shakespeare's hero,

GRAND JURY INDICTS MAN BUT RECOMMENDS LENIENCY

Votes True Bill Charging Elmer Maher With Manslaughter in Auto Killing.

Elmer Maher, 4024A Greer avenue, is charged with manslaughter in an indictment voted by the grand jury yesterday for the killing of Ellis Gordon, Negro, who was struck by Maher's automobile Nov. 25. However, the grand jury took the unusual step of recommending leniency for Maher.

A coroner's verdict of criminal carelessness, holding Maher for the grand jury, was returned. Witnesses at the inquest testified Maher, who was driving west in Wash street, failed to make a stop before crossing Twentieth street. Gordon, 68 years old, a laborer, residing at 2001A Wash, was crossing Wash street on the west side of Twentieth and was said to have been running. Maher, 26, is a mechanic.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Cancellation of the following loan and grant allotments was announced yesterday by Secretary Ickes, the Public Works Administrator.

Ickes said the money had been allotted to other PWA projects. The allotments included:

Missouri: Lancaster, loan and grant of $55,000 for a water system because its construction is impossible before next spring; Fulton, loan and grant of $42,000 to Callaway County for a jail because of the county's delay in executing a bond contract; Carrollton, loan and grant of $48,500 to Carroll County for a jail because of the county's delay in executing a bond contract; St. Louis County, loan and grant of $39,800 to School District No. 69, Concord School, for a new building because the proposed bond issue was defeated.

Illinois: Joliet, loan and grant of $170,000 for water system improvements, because of the city's delay in executing the bond and bond contract; Batavia, loan and grant of $21,000 for repairing a bridge at the request of the city; Woodford County, loan and grant of $24,000 to Community High School District No. 122 for a gymnasium building at the request of the district; Oglesby, loan and grant of $22,000 to School District No. 125 of La Salle County for a new building at the request of the district; Wheaton, loan and grant of $115,000 for a grade crossing because the proposed bond issue was defeated.

Formal consideration of the proposal of a river front memorial here to Thomas Jefferson and others concerned in the Louisiana Purchase and the development of the West began today with the organization of the new United States Territorial Expansion Memorial Commission.

The commission, created by the last session of Congress to plan the memorial, held its first meeting at Hotel Jefferson. Laid before it was a plan suggested for the memorial by the local Jefferson-National Expansion Memorial Association. Estimated cost of this plan, details of which have been published, was $200,000 to $250,000. It would cover the section between Eads and Municipal bridges and between the river and Third street, with an extension to the old Courthouse.

On the day's program, after a morning business session of the commission, were a luncheon at Hotel Chase and a bus trip over the proposed memorial site. Tonight the commission will be entertained by the Industrial Club at a large formal dinner for men, at Hotel Jefferson.

Members of the commission who attended were: Dr. Jefferson Randolph Kean of Washington, retired Brigadier-General and a great-grandson of Thomas Jefferson; William T. Kemper, Kansas City banker and Democratic National Committeeman; Senator Alben W. Barkley of Paducah, Ky.; Senator Frederick Van Nuys of Indianapolis; Congressman Lloyd Thurston of Osceola, Ia.; Dr. Charles E. Merriam, professor of political science at the University of Chicago; William Allen White, the Emporia (Kan.) publicist; J. Lionberger Davis, president and board chairman of Security National Bank, Savings & Trust Co., and Luther Ely Smith, lawyer and chairman of the Jefferson-National Expansion Memorial Association.

Those who could not attend were: Senator James J. Davis of Pittsburgh, Congressman Kent E. Keller of Ava, Ill.; Congressman John N. Sandlin of Minden, La.; Newton D. Baker of Cleveland, war-time Secretary of War; Matthew Woll, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor; and Amon G. Carter, publisher of the Fort Worth (Tex.) Star-Telegram.

The commission was empowered to accept from public or private sources money or property for use in planning the memorial. When its creation was proposed as a result of a movement sponsored by Smith and Mayor Dickmann, the first idea was to ask the Federal Government to pay for the memorial. This was dropped. No scheme for raising the funds needed for construction has been suggested yet.

Under terms of the congressional resolution establishing the commission, three members were appointed by President Roosevelt, three by Vice-President Garner, three by the Speaker of the House and six by the Jefferson-National Expansion Memorial Association.

Congress provided for "a permanent memorial to the men who made possible the territorial expansion of the United States, particularly President Thomas Jefferson and his aids, Livingston and Monroe, who negotiated the Louisiana Purchase, and the great explorers, Lewis and Clark, and the hardy hunters, trappers, frontiersmen and pioneers and others who contributed to the territorial expansion and development of the United States."

A congressional commission carried out the construction of a notable George Rogers Clark memorial at Vincennes, Ind. Luther Ely Smith was a member of that commission.

PWA RESULTS FALL SHORT

436,528 Directly Employed, 50,000 Below Estimates.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—The public works program is carrying somewhat less of the winter's unemployment burden than officials had expected.

Direct employment on construction projects totaled 436,528 men on Dec. 1, about 50,000 below the total PWA statisticians had predicted for that date. Most of this difference was attributed to failure of non-Federal projects to produce the jobs expected.

Man Missing After Explosion.

NEW ALBANY, Ind., Dec. 19.—Gasoline explosion destroyed the Evans Brothers' garage at Lanesville, Ind., near here last night, burned one man seriously. George Sturms, a mechanic, was blown through the back door of the garage, his clothing and shoes aflame from the gasoline. Another man, identified by Sturms as Alvin Newman, of Louisville, a truck driver, is missing.

JACKSON, MISS., TO VOTE ON BUYING TVA POWER

Breaks Off Negotiations With Private Company and Orders Election on Municipal Distribution.

JACKSON, Miss., Dec. 19.—The Jackson City Commission yesterday terminated negotiations with the Mississippi Power & Light Co. for reduced electric rates and called an election for Jan. 19 to vote on a proposed $1,500,000 bond issue to build or acquire a municipal distribution system as a first step toward getting TVA power.

Turning down a compromise rate reduction schedule offered by the company, the commission ordered its own new schedule effective Jan. 1.

It provides for a reduction of 30 per cent for residential consumers, 25 per cent for governmental consumers, 20 per cent for commercial users and 15 per cent for industrial users. It is estimated it will save $168,809 a year to consumers.

The company's proposal would have eliminated all room service and flat charges for residential and commercial service. Company officials estimated it would have saved consumers $168,809.

NOTRE DAME MAN AWARDED NICHOLS CHEMISTRY MEDAL

Father Nieuwland Honored for Work on Synthesis of Unsaturated Hydrocarbons.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Award of the William H. Nichols chemistry medal to the Notre Dame scientist, Father Joseph A. Nieuwland, was announced last night. Father Nieuwland's studies at Notre Dame led to the development of synthetic rubber, the royalties on which he gives to religious work.

In connection with the Nichols award, Father H. B. Stroning of Notre Dame said that in 1903 Father Nieuwland as a chemistry student at Catholic University discovered a chemical compound, which became the basis on which many years later Dr. H. Lee Lewis of Northwestern University developed a synthetic rubber for military use. The war ended before it could be used. Now chemists say it is not quite as effective as mustard gas.

The award by the New York section of the American Chemical Society goes to the Notre Dame scientist for "basic work on synthesis of unsaturated hydrocarbons."

MEALUX, France, Dec. 19.—Lucien Daubigny, a railroad engineer, was charged by police today with responsibility for the deaths of the 200 persons who died in a train disaster at Lagny last Christmas eve. Daubigny was the pilot of the speeding express which crashed into a standing train.

He was charged with homicide by "imprudence" in failure to heed a warning signal. The authorities accused him of running past four signals in the fog the night of the tragedy.

ACCUSED OF DEATHS IN WRECK

MEALUX, France, Dec. 19.—Lucien Daubigny, a railroad engineer, was charged by police today with responsibility for the deaths of the 200 persons who died in a train disaster at Lagny last Christmas eve. Daubigny was the pilot of the speeding express which crashed into a standing train.

He was charged with homicide by "imprudence" in failure to heed a warning signal. The authorities accused him of running past four signals in the fog the night of the tragedy.

WIDOW DIES OF INJURIES AFTER LEAPING FROM PORCH

Mrs. Minnie Pappalardo, 42, Had Written Note Saying, "I Have Gone to Kill Myself."

Mrs. Minnie Pappalardo, 42-year-old widow, died at City Hospital yesterday of injuries suffered Saturday when she leaped from a third-floor porch at 1429 Chambers street. She had swallowed poison also.

Mrs. Pappalardo lived at 14421A Monroe street with her father, Charles Pappalardo, who is blind, and her 10-year-old daughter, DeDores. After writing a note saying, "I have gone to kill myself," she went to the Chambers street address and jumped from the porch into the rear yard. She suffered fractures of the skull, hip and arms. Her coat, containing two bottles of poison, was found on the porch.

Rehuff told the police that his daughter feared she was losing her mind.

CONFESSION REPORTED IN CALIFORNIA KILLING

Youth Arrested Here Said to Admit Shooting Oakland Oil Station Attendant.

While Berkeley (Cal.) police were on their way to St. Louis by airplane yesterday to get two prisoners whose arrest they had requested in connection with the hold-up and subsequent murder of Hugh Malloch, University of California student operator of a filling station at Oakland, St. Louis police reported they had obtained statements from both.

Damon Henry Pease, 23 years old, of Antioch, Cal., was quoted as saying he fired the shot that killed Malloch Dec. 2. George Black, 26, denied being present when the student was killed but was said to have admitted holding him up at the filling station two nights before. Both were arrested at the Baden Station Postoffice Monday when Pease called for a money order.

Denies Part in Holdup. Pease had repeatedly declared his innocence, until informed late yesterday that George Rose had been arrested at Oakland and had admitted he was present when Malloch was killed.

In his statement to police, Pease was reported to have said he had taken no part in the holdup of Malloch. Two days later, however, he said he was driving past the station in an automobile with Rose when Malloch recognized Rose as one of the robbers.

Pursuing them in an automobile, Pease related Malloch forced his machine to the curb and ordered them to turn about and drive back to the station. Hoping to frighten the student, Pease said, he fired three random shots, then fired a fourth and fatal bullet when Malloch pointed a pistol at them.

Extradition Waived. Later, the stolen machine in which Pease was riding was driven over an embankment and wrecked. Police found in it a hat which they were able to trace to Pease. They learned he had drawn his wages at a steel plant where he had been employed. They also learned his mother had sent a $10 money order and a Christmas package to him under the name of "Henry Miller," addressed to St. Louis.

A three-day vigil by St. Louis detectives resulted in the arrests. Pease said he and Black had come here on a freight train.

Both prisoners waived extradition and will be returned by Berkeley police who are expected today.

TELEPHONE RATE REVISION IS EXPECTED TO SAVE $17,500

New Schedules Modify Charges Principally in Kansas City and Nearby Towns.

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 19.—New schedules modifying rates for nine types of miscellaneous telephone service, chiefly in Kansas City and nearby towns, were filed with the Missouri Public Service Commission yesterday by the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. The company estimated the tariff revisions would result in reduction of about $17,500 a year to about 3700 users.

After the new schedules were filed the commission dismissed a case for investigation of the reasonableness of charges by the company for incidental and auxiliary equipment and services. This inquiry applied to rates for special telephones, special mountings, buzzers, switches, relays, extension bells, loud ringing bells for customers with defective hearing and rented telephone booths.

Six of the rate changes for miscellaneous service make rates in Kansas City, North Kansas City and Independence, for special services, conform to such rates elsewhere in the State. The services involved are extension gongs, buzzers, push buttons, alternate directory listings and headband receivers. These changes affect about 3000 customers and would reduce their rates about $1000 a month it was said.

The other three rate changes, effective for all Missouri exchanges of the company, apply to about 700 users of outdoor wall telephones, and special telephones for persons with defective hearing.

EXPERTS DIFFER ON SANITY OF MAN WHO KILLED TWO

Charles E. Graham of Grand Junction, Colo., Was Saved From Lethal Chamber Last Summer.

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo., Dec. 19.—Medical experts, still are divided on the question of whether Charles E. Graham, former Altman (Ill.) resident, was unable to "distinguish right from wrong" when he killed Mrs. Vina Glazier and George Morris with an ax here last Jan. 14.

Four doctors have been called to testify in the present sanity hearing for Graham, who was saved from the lethal gas chamber last summer by the Supreme Court, which ordered a new trial. At his first trial, last spring, he was found sane and sentenced to death. Three doctors repeated testimony given in the earlier trial, contending that Graham is plainly insane, addicted to visions and hallucinations which render him incapable of distinguishing right from wrong as defined by law. They are Dr. B. L. Jefferson, Superintendent of the State Home for Mental Defectives here, and Dr. Frank McDonough and Dr. E. H. Peterson, local physicians.

Against the three the prosecution pitted the declaration of Dr. F. H. Zimmerman, Superintendent of the Colorado Insane Hospital at Pueblo, where Graham was under observation last spring. He contended that the defendant can and could at the time of the crime distinguish between right and wrong even though he may have been insane in other respects.

U. S.-TO-POLAND FLYERS
INDICTED ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Still Raided in Their Brooklyn Soda Water Plant While They Were in Warsaw.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Federal agents raided a still of 2000-gallon daily capacity in Brooklyn last September, while Joseph and Benjamin Adamowicz were being acclaimed in Warsaw, Poland, for their successful flight across the Atlantic.

Yesterday the Adamowicz were indicted on charges of conspiracy in connection with the operation of the still, which was in their soda bottling plant. Another brother, Brimislav, and three other men were indicted.

mony that they had sent false statements through the mails in promoting sales of stock in the Trapshooters Reilly Gold Mine near Venizia, Ariz.

HAY OFFERS HOPKINS
CITY JOBLESS PLAN

Proposal Calls for Assigning St. Louis Unemployed to Municipal Work.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 201-205 Kellogg Bldg., WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—City Counselor Charles M. Hay has placed before Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins a plan to put unemployed in St. Louis to work for the city.

Hay does not propose to change the present set-up of relief administration. Workers would be chosen from the relief rolls by the present relief agency, on the basis of fitness and capacity. They would be paid out of Federal Relief funds, as at present, and they would work under the supervision of the head of the city department in which they were employed.

"Might Prevent Tax Increase."

This plan, in the belief of Hay and Mayor Dickman, could be applied not only in St. Louis but in many other cities where a similar situation exists. Such a plan, Hay suggested, might prevent an increase in the city's tax burden that now seems imminent.

Hay made it clear that he did not intend that "relief workers be used to supplant persons now on the city payroll and who can be retained and paid out of present city revenues."

The city would maintain its operating expenses at the full amount of its operating revenues which would be held "at least at its present standard."

Provisions of Plan.

Hay's plan provides: "That the Federal Government continue to pay the persons on relief used in the city's service the same amount as they would receive if not so used; that the city pay such persons the amount in addition which may be necessary in order to enable such persons to work—such as carfare, extra clothing, etc.; that the persons so employed work each week the number of hours necessary to earn the amount paid at the rate per hour received by regular city employees in the same line of work; that the workers to be furnished from relief rolls be selected by the regular relief agency on the basis of fitness and capacity to do the class of work demanded and that the supervisory and directing of the workers be under the department of the city in which they are employed."

"The plan I have suggested," Hay told Hopkins in his memorandum, submitted today, "results from protests arising from taxpayers on the one hand protesting against heavy outlays of relief money without any service in return, and, on the other hand, from persons on relief protesting against being forced to accept a mere dole without any opportunity to work. Direct relief unaccompanied by work is fast creating a great army of dependents whose morale is breaking and masses of whom are rapidly developing an aversion to work."

BANKER DEAD

EUGENE R. BLACK.

E. R. BLACK, RESERVE
BOARD'S EX-HEAD, DIES

Banker Suddenly Stricken at Home in Atlanta—61 Years Old.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 19.—Eugene R. Black, former governor of the Federal Reserve Board, died at his residence here today. He was 61 years old.

Members of the family said a doctor was called to the residence last night after he complained of being ill. He had been slightly indisposed for the last three days. He was stricken with a heart attack at 4:30 a. m. and died two hours later.

Mr. Black, who was a son-in-law of Henry W. Grady, the journalist, resigned his post recently as head of the Federal Reserve Board, a position to which he was drafted by President Roosevelt, to return to his old job of governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of the Sixth District here.

Since his return to Atlanta, he had been serving as liaison between the banks of the country and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

A Conservative Influence.

Mr. Black was considered one of the more conservative influences in the Federal financial and banking set up. He led the opposition of the Reserve System to surrendering its stock of monetary gold, which was valued at more than three billion dollars. While opposing the step by President Roosevelt, he made no break in the personal friendship between him and the President. He generally was represented as opposed to devaluation of the gold dollar. He was the originator of legislation for direct loans to industry by the Reserve Banks and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Also, he was credited with helping write the law which now regulates the stock exchanges and security issues.

In his early days at the head of the Reserve System, he inaugurated a policy of regular open market purchases of Government securities by the Reserve Banks to aid in building up a huge volume of excess reserves as an intended aid to business. The Reserve banks bought until their portfolio reached $2,430,000,000.

Mr. Black has spent much of his time recently in traveling about the country in connection with his commission to stimulate credit facilities.

After attending the University of Georgia, he began the practice of law in Atlanta but transferred to the banking field. In 1928 he was made Governor of the Sixth Federal Reserve District Bank, succeeding M. B. Wellborn.

In 1896 he married Miss Gussie Grady, daughter of the Southern editor. She survives. His daughter, Mrs. Walter H. Wellborn of Atlanta; two sons, Eugene R. Black Jr. of New York, and Henry Grady Black of Atlanta, also survive. He was a brother of Justice William Harman Black of New York and Charles H. Black of Atlanta.

15 PCT. MORE TO CREDITORS OF GRAND NATIONAL BANK

Authorization by Comptroller of Currency Brings the Total to 32 1/2 Per Cent.

A distribution of 15 per cent, or nearly $250,000 on claims totaling $1,658,000, to depositors and other creditors of the Grand National Bank has been authorized by the Comptroller of the Currency, it was announced last night by the receiver, John W. Snyder.

The payment will bring the total distribution to general creditors so far to 32 1/2 per cent or about $875,000, a payment of 37 1/2 per cent having been made last June.

Snyder said the second payment was made possible by a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Creditors will receive their checks through the mail after signing and returning receipts mailed out to them last night.

tel. will follow the mass. The jubilee observance will be concluded with special vesper services in the Cathedral and churches of the diocese, Sunday afternoon.

DESLOGE ESTATE TO PAY
10 $33,500 U. S. TAX ON GIFT

Net Inheritance Levy on $1,000,000 Donated to St. Louis U. for Hospital.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—The estate of Firmin V. Desloge will pay the Federal Government an inheritance tax of $33,502 on the gift of $1,000,000 which Desloge's sons made from funds of the estate to St. Louis University for the new Firmin V. Desloge hospital.

The United States Board of Tax Appeals held, and its ruling was affirmed by the Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis, that the gift was left to the discretion of the Desloge sons, Joseph and Firmin V., and therefore could not be deducted from the amount of the inheritance subject to taxation.

The total amount of the deficiency tax on the gift was $363,533, but the Federal Statute allows a deduction up to 80 per cent for inheritance or estate taxes paid to States. The amount paid to the State of Missouri, which was deducted from this total, was $330,030.

The total gross inheritance tax against the Desloge estate was $636,306. Approximately 80 per cent of this was deducted because of taxes paid in Missouri.

Wife Sues Louis Wertheimer.

Mrs. Hanna V. Wertheimer, 6132 Kingsbury avenue, filed suit yesterday to divorce Louis Wertheimer, an insurance agent. They were married in 1907 and separated Oct. 15, 1933. Mrs. Wertheimer alleges desertion. They have a son, Louis, and a daughter, Miss Jane Carolyn Wertheimer.

Official Tells of Posing As Outlaw to Nab Gunman

Indiana Attorney-General's Aid Gives Details of Capture of Joseph Burns of Dillinger Gang.

By the Associated Press.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 19.—A silk shirt and a woman led to the capture in Chicago last Sunday of Joseph Burns, a murderer who escaped from Indiana State Prison in 1933 with members of the John Dillinger gang, Deputy Attorney-General J. Edward Barce relates.

Barce, who is credited with having posed as a gunman in order to set the trap for Burns, returned to his office yesterday. He has been in Chicago most of the last few months.

It was while loafing in underworld hangouts, Barce said, that he met a woman who, glancing at the silk shirt he wore, remarked: "I'll bet that's not an honest shirt."

Trap That Failed.

Barce encouraged her to think he was a criminal and through that association and other connections, he said, he got in Burns' company. He succeeded in interesting the man in a plan to hold up a distillery truck containing 2000 cases of whiskey. Two associates of Burns, one of whom Barce said "is wanted plenty," were to be in on the deal.

"What I wanted was to get all the gang together and then make the pinch," Barce said. Whether Burns became suspicious, Barce was unable to say, but the escaped convict unexpectedly made plans to leave town.

That was when Burns was arrested with only a woman companion, according to Barce. The authorities were notified that Burns was going to leave Chicago and when he was arrested all his clothing had been packed.

Barce expressed the opinion that Burns had within the last six months tried to reorganize the survivors of the Dillinger gang. Until the last few months, however, Barce said, he found little to indicate that the convict had had anything to do with the former companions of Dillinger.

Linked With South Bend Holdup.

"I have known for two months that Burns was in on the South Bend, Ind., bank robbery last June, in which a policeman was killed," Barce said. He added that ballistic tests of machine guns found in Burns' apartment Sunday would bear out that statement.

Burns was sluggish from having drunk too much home-brewed beer when he was captured, Barce said. He believes John Hamilton and Joseph Fox, the only two of the 19 convicts who escaped from State prison Sept. 26, 1933, who are still at liberty, are both alive.

Credit was given by Barce to Deputy Attorney-General of Indiana.

Miss Genevieve Roth, a clerk in the Attorney-General's office, for assisting him in his work in Chicago. He said she frequently rode with police when they were trailing Barce and the gangsters with whom he was associating.

Barce said he would put before Gov. McNutt the "complete" story of the escape of the 19 convicts from the State prison. Gov. McNutt paid tribute to Barce's courage.

Graduate of Washington U.

Barce is from Fowler, Ind., in the agricultural district north of Indianapolis. Before becoming Deputy Attorney-General under Philip Lutz he served as Prosecuting Attorney in his home county. He is a graduate of Washington University of St. Louis.

He first began to take a prominent part in the roundup of members of the Dillinger gang following the capture of Dillinger, Harry Pierpont, Russell Clark and Charles Mackey at Tucson, Ariz., last January. At that time he accompanied Lutz to Tucson to handle the legal work incidental to the extradition of the men to Indiana.

SAYS 90 PCT. OF BREWERIES IN ILLINOIS ARE LOSING MONEY

R. Guy Kneidler of Highland Testifies Before Legislators Investigating Sale of Beer.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—R. Guy Kneidler of Collinsville, president of the Schott Brewing Co., Highland, Ill., asserted that 90 per cent of the Illinois breweries are losing money, as he testified today before a joint State legislative committee investigating the manufacture and sale of beer in the State.

Kneidler and others speaking for the industry asked for a reciprocity bill to protect Illinois beer manufacturers against competition from Indiana and Michigan manufacturers. They pointed to the "import" taxes in those states as practically eliminating them, while other states were able to sell beer in Illinois more cheaply than the State's breweries.

John Grogan of the Kaseley Brewing Co., Chicago, said that due to cost of labor and materials, Illinois breweries faced 30 per cent higher production costs than those in Wisconsin.

Chester Mitchell of Mokena, Ill., and E. J. Wetzel, secretary of the Illinois Association of Brewers, also pleaded for legislation to protect the industry in the State.

DRYS TO RENEW PROHIBITION FIGHT FIRST DAY OF CONGRESS

Bishop Cannon Says New Constitutional Amendment Will Be Offered.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Return of prohibition and the prevention of the use of the radio and mails to advertise liquor in dry states were announced by Bishop James Cannon Jr. yesterday as objectives of the National Prohibition Council.

Bishop Cannon was appointed chairman of a committee representing the council to "confer with members of Congress concerning the best methods to secure return of national prohibition at the earliest possible date."

The committee, he said, "had two conferences at which it was agreed that on the opening day of Congress a resolution would be introduced, submitting to the states a constitutional prohibition amendment; that at the same time bills would be introduced prohibiting the use of the radio or of the mails for liquor advertising, to protect dry territory according to the principle of the twenty-first amendment."

ANSONIA, Conn., Dec. 19.—Mrs. Frank E. Merancy lost her pay envelope containing $12 14 years ago. Yesterday she opened an envelope delivered by mail and found $12 and an unsigned note which read: "This is your money I found a long time ago."

DISCOUNT AGENCIES NOT INDORSED BY HOLC

Chairman Points Out Borrowers May Save More Than Amount Brokers Offer.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—For the information of home owners who have obtained loans from the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, John H. Fahey, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, has issued a statement saying that the corporation never has appointed brokerage concerns as its agents to offer home owners a service by which a discount may be made from their current payments due to the Corporation.

"The matter has been brought to our attention," Fahey said, "in the form of circulars issued by local brokerage firms, which offer to save the home-owner borrower 2 per cent of his monthly payments due the Home Owners' Loan Corporation. In many cases, this would be of no great service to the home owner at a time when the amount of the amount due, simply by buying the 2 1/2 per cent bonds of the Corporation at a discount and turning them in at full par value.

"There is nothing essentially wrong in such offers made by these brokerage firms," Fahey said, "nor in their method of soliciting business among borrowers of the Corporation. The reason why the Corporation declines to endorse such arrangements or to approve any such concerns as its own agents is simply that the Corporation cannot vouch for the firms which may offer this service.

"All borrowers from the Corporation should be aware that they can pay their current indebtedness in bonds of the Corporation instead of in cash," Fahey added. "When such bonds can be purchased at a discount and turned in to the Corporation at their par value by the borrower, he saves the full amount of that discount, less whatever market commission he pays in the purchase of the bonds.

"While the home-owner borrower is entirely free to make any arrangements he desires with any brokerage concern, or to appoint anyone as his own agent in making payments to the Corporation, he should not be led to do so on the representation that such concerns are acting as agents of the Corporation. The Corporation has no such agents anywhere."

MAYOR SIGNS ORDINANCES FOR SALE OF CITY BONDS

Improvement Group Will Be Issued Only as Revenue Becomes Available to Pay Them Off.

Ordinances passed last Wednesday, authorizing sale of $2,553,000 in refunding bonds and of the $18,100,000 in improvement bonds voted last May were approved yesterday by Mayor Dickmann. They became effective at once.

The refunding bonds will furnish money to pay certain bonds of the 1923 issue which will mature next year, for which the sinking fund will not be sufficient. Comptroller Nolte said he would confer with bankers before offering these bonds for sale. The Board of Estimate and Apportionment has agreed on the sale of $2,553,000 of the new improvement bonds, and it is expected these will be offered soon.

The ordinance provided that the May bonds be sold only as new revenue to pay the interest and principal on them might become available.

The maximum interest under the ordinance would be 4 per cent on the refunding bonds and 5 per cent on the improvement bonds. Nolte hoped it might be possible to dispose of both at 3 per cent interest. The Mayor and Comptroller were authorized to conduct the sales.

20 DUCK HUNTERS

ARRESTED IN ILLINOIS

Ray Pickrel, St. Louis, Pays $25 Fine at Havana for Having No Club License.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 19.—

Twenty duck hunters were arrested last Saturday and Sunday in a drive by a group of State Game Wardens to stop violations of the State game laws on the Illinois River in the vicinity of Beardstown, Ill.

Most of the arrests were for violations of regulations governing shooting from pens. Offenders were taken before justices of peace in counties bordering the Illinois River. All pleaded guilty and paid fines, deputy game wardens announced.

The Illinois statutes require a special license to hunt from a feeding pen, prohibit shooting from a baited pen after 3 p. m. and from an unbaited pen or any other place after sundown.

Eight were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Carl G. Krebaum of Havana. The names they gave and penalties assessed are: E. M. Ule and W. E. Ule of Chicago, hunting after sundown, $25 fine each; Mark Davis of Havana, hunting without a pen license, $25 fine; Ed Smith of Bath, Ill., Carl Burgess of Oak Park, and Henry L. Frick, hunting after hours in a baited pen, $35 fine each; Arnold Armbrust of Topeka, Ill., $100 total fine on 36 charges combined under feeding pen regulations; and Ray Pickrel of St. Louis, no club license, $25.

Two other hunters who were fined by Justice of the Peace Pratt at Rushville, said they were A. N. Isenore of Macomb, and Harold Blinney of Rush City. Isenore was fined $250 for selling five ducks, $50 a duck, and Blinney was fined $25 for hunting from a baited pen after hours.

Names of other offenders have not been reported at Springfield. Some of those arrested protested against the actions of the Game Wardens in making searches.

Pickrel, president of the Pickrel Walnut Co., 1025 Clara avenue, said his club was for the convenience of himself and invited guests; only, and his attorney had advised him he did not need the license. He paid the fine under protest.

CHARITY GIFTS OF $4,600,000 FROM CONRAD HUBERT ESTATE

Fifteen Institutions Benefit From Fortune of Florida Philanthropist.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Fifteen institutions selected by the late Calvin Coolidge, Alfred E. Smith and Julius Rosenwald have received a total of $4,600,000 in the last four years from the estate of Conrad Hubert, Florida philanthropist, filling of an accounting yesterday disclosed.

Eight other institutions will soon receive $1,000,000 from the estate. The accounting, covering the period from Oct. 4, 1930, to Oct. 1, 1934, showed the payment of $2,000,000 to the Reekman Street Hospital, St. Vincent's Hospital, Boy Scouts of America, Girl Scouts Inc., and the Providence Hospital of Chicago.

The American National Red Cross has received $375,000 and each of the following $250,000: Y. M. C. A. of Jersey City, Jewish Mental Health Society of New York, National Committee on Mental Hygiene, Jewish Theological Seminary of America and New York University.

The Children's Society of New York got $200,000 and the Young Men's Hebrew Association of New York City $175,000. The New York Foundling Hospital and the International Migration Service Inc., American branch, each received $50,000.

JEROME D. BRINKMAN WILL GIVES ESTATE TO MOTHER

Two Aunts Also Share in Estate Which Is Valued at Not More Than $250,000.

The will of Jerome D. Brinkman, 23-year-old president of the senior law class at St. Louis University, who died Dec. 12 of pneumonia and blood poisoning following a tooth extraction, was filed for probate at Clayton yesterday.

Made the day of his death at Missouri Baptist Hospital, it bequeathes his estate to his mother, Mrs. Marie Doerr Brinkman, and two aunts, Anna and Mathilda Doerr. In the application for the letters of the will, his mother states that the estate does not exceed $250,000.

Mr. Brinkman's death disclosed his secret marriage to Miss Inez Fitzgerald, a senior in the Washington University law school. Although she attested to the will, signing her maiden name, she is not mentioned in it. In the application for probate of the will she is listed as an heir, however.

Mr. Brinkman was the son of Ben G. Brinkman, former controlling owner of the Arena and Forest Park Highlands. He resided with his mother at Robyn road and Lindbergh boulevard, St. Louis County.

$38,000,000 Sugar Beet Crop. WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—The total farm value of sugar beets raised in 1934 was set at $38,465,000 in the crop report issued by the Agriculture Department yesterday. This compares with a value of $36,596,000 in 1933 and a valuation of $47,708,000 in 1932. The production of 7,627,000 tons of beets harvested for sugar this year was 32 per cent less than the record crop of 11,030,000 tons in 1933 and 16 per cent smaller than the 8,070,000 tons harvested in 1932. The report showed the 1934 crop is comparable in tonnage with those of the period 1923 to 1929.

WIDOW FREED IN MURDER OF INDIANA PASTOR

Jury Agrees She Paid
Youth $10 to Kill Husband but Finds She Was Insane at That Time.

By the Associated Press.
LEBANON, Ind., Dec. 19.—Mrs.
Neoma Saunders was acquitted yesterday of the murder of her husband, the Rev. Gaylord V. Saunders.
Not guilty because of temporary insanity was the verdict a jury returned after two hours' deliberation.
Mrs. Saunders was charged with paying 19-year-old Theodore Matthers $10 to have her husband killed. Mather, who is to be tried later, confessed that he shot the minister. The body was found in the minister's automobile on an Indianapolis street early last February.

The Rev. Mr. Saunders at the time of his death was a student at an Indianapolis embling school, having resigned as pastor of the Wabash Street Methodist Episcopal Church at Wabash, Ind. Mather was his roommate.

The verdict said: "We, the jury, agree and find that the defendant committed the crime of murder as charged in the indictment and that the defendant is not guilty because she was of unsound mind at the time of the commission of the crime."

The jury took three ballots. The first was 9 to 3 for acquittal on the grounds of temporary insanity, the second 10 to 2, the third unanimous.
Mrs. Saunders laughed hysterically as the verdict was read, then thanked each member of the jury
as they filed past her.

Special Judge Paul E. Laymon of Frankfort immediately signed an order for her release. He remarked that although she was found not guilty because of unsound mind, she had been examined by physicians he appointed just prior to the trial and found to be sane at the present time.

State Urged Life Sentence.
Trial of Mather, jointly indicted with Mrs. Saunders, was scheduled to begin Monday, but was postponed because Mrs. Saunders' trial had not been completed.

In his closing argument, Ben M.
Seifres, Boone County Prosecutor, asked the jurors to "lock this woman up for life." No demand was made for the death penalty.

Seifres said Mrs. Saunders was intent on collecting insurance carried by her husband, which was worth $19,200 in event of his accidental death. He said she was anxious to carry on an affair with Mather.

Mrs. Saunders is the mother of two sons, Billy and James, the eldest 13 years old.

PERSONAL

Dear Santa Claus,
Welfare is helping us to hang up the stocking this year. I borrowed some money on my car from them. After all, the kids would have been pretty disappointed. And the Welfare people were awfully nice about it.
They loaned me more on the old bus than I thought I could really expect. So don't miss my chimney, and be sure your sack is loaded. We'll be waiting—thanks to Welfare.

It was stormy night out and one in the Billikens' gymnasium too, for there were 37 free goals scored, 19 of them by St. Louis. A little more accuracy at the free throw line and the Billikens might have won.

REDBIRDS' ACE HAS 155-POINT LEAD OVER HIS CLOSEST RIVAL

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Picking up where his great sophomore rival, Red Owen Hubbell, left off a year ago, the celebrated Jerome Herpin (Dizzy) Dean rules the sport of 1934 as the outstanding performer, in any sport, by virtually a landslide vote of acclaim in the fourth annual Associated Press sports poll.

Nearly 75 per cent of the ballots, received from sports writers and editors throughout the country, named the right-handed pitcher ace of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals as the No. 1 athlete of the year, amateur or professional.

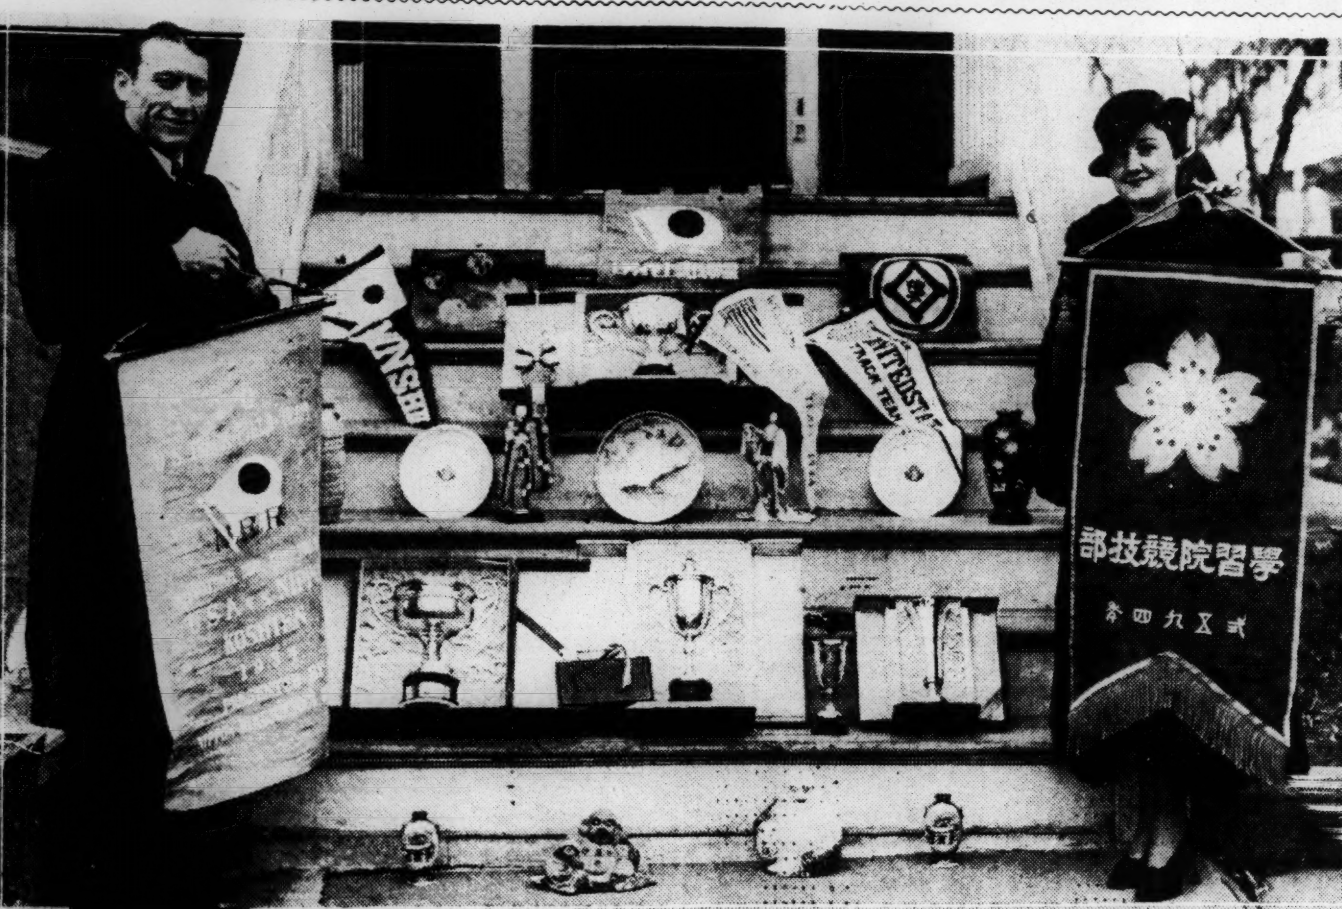

He was put at the head of the list by 75 out of 112 observers, each of whom was asked to name the three outstanding athletes of 1934. He easily outscored such notable rivals as William Lawson Little Jr., Max Baer, Fred Perry and Glenn Cunningham, who finished in that order, and collected a total of 268 points in the complete tabulation, more than double the total for Little, 115.

Hubbell, the 1933 winner, failed to receive a single vote despite the fact the pitching ace of the New York Giants turned in one of the year's outstanding stunts in fanning Ruth, Gehrig, Fox, Simmons and Cronin in succession in the all-star major league game.

Dean, 26, was named the best pitcher in the world by 75 per cent of the voters. He was named the best pitcher in the world by 75 per cent of the voters. He was named the best pitcher in the world by 75 per cent of the voters.

"No Change in Cards' Control or Management Is Planned" --Breadon

By Dent McSkimming
An unusual combination of circumstances involving stock in the Cardinal baseball organization, made public yesterday in the Post-Dispatch, has led to the general assumption that there will follow a change in control or management of the club's affairs, but President Sam Breadon and Vice-President Branch Rickey emphatically denied that any important change was contemplated.

Immediately following the news of a 40 per cent dividend to stockholders, which developed at noon yesterday, the Post-Dispatch learned that Branch Rickey had sold his stock in the club to Clarence H. Howard Jr., local capitalist. The fact that the dividend, the first paid since 1931, represented in part "undivided surplus" combined with Rickey's relinquishment of his holdings, appeared to some observers as basis for the assumption that the club's ownership was about to sever its connection with the organization.

Rickey himself points out that his contract has three more years to run, and that the sale has nothing to do with his leaving the club. "It does not follow that I am planning to leave the club because I dispose of my stock," said Rickey. He was also quoted as saying that he has no other job in mind.

"Club Not Concerned"—Breadon. Breadon, owner of 75 per cent of the 7833 shares of common stock, and 88 per cent of the 2327 shares of preferred, upon which he collects a dividend of about $89,000, said that Howard's purchase of Rickey's stock held no particular significance so far as the club's affairs are concerned. The report that Howard had purchased some of Breadon's stock was denied from both sides, and Howard added that he did not have in mind a plan to gain control of the club. He has a minor stockholder since 1917, but has recently added to his holdings.

JONES RESIGNS AS HEAD COACH OF L. S. U. TEAM

By the Associated Press.
BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 19.—The resignation of Capt. Lawrence "Biff" Jones as football coach at Louisiana State University—all because he dared defy the "Kingfish," Senator Huey P. Long—was in the hands of President James M. Smith today.

Senator Long said he understood a nationally known "topnotcher," had been chosen to succeed Jones, but Dr. Smith said a "half dozen" prospective coaches were being considered to replace Jones, but none had been chosen.

"I understand they've already picked a new coach—one with a national reputation," Long said last night in the Senate after Dr. Smith announced that Jones' resignation had been accepted, effective Jan. 1. "He's a topnotcher," Long said, "but his appointment has not been announced out of courtesy to Coach Jones, whose resignation is not effective until the first. I guess it'll be announced then."

Dr. Smith also announced yesterday that Castro Carazo, dance orchestra leader for a New Orleans hotel, had been named to succeed A. W. Wickboldt as director of the L. S. U. 125-piece band. Wickboldt, he said, had resigned because of ill health.

Friction between Jones and Long, who has been accused of trying to "run the team," reached a climax after the intersectional battle between L. S. U. and Oregon last Saturday, which L. S. U. won, 14 to 13, after staging an uphill battle.

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 19.—ALFRED MASTERS, Stanford graduate manager, today predicted a record crowd of 85,000 for the Rose Bowl football classic between Stanford and Alabama here New Year's day.

Masters' prediction was made after the first day of public sales which boosted the total sales to better than 60,000, double the attendance for the Stanford-Columbia encounter a year ago.

"I know," said Masters, "that sometimes advance figures are padded, but there is no hokum about the fact that we have less than 25,000 tickets left, and these undoubtedly will be sold before Christmas day."

That would amount to about $240,000 gross receipts. After expenses approximately $180,000 would be left to split three ways to Alabama, Stanford and the Tournament of Roses Committee.

St. L. U. High Soccer Victors. St. Louis University High School's soccer team, with Dick Egan scoring three and Joe Roman the other goal, beat Chamigade's eleven, 4-0, yesterday afternoon at Chaminade.

Temple Drills On Passes for Tulane Contest

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 19.—A mock scrimmage between two teams of Temple University football players has given the first indication of the probable line-up of the Cardinals.

With big Dave Smukler, line-smashing fullback still in a hospital, Warner yesterday built up his main offensive by including the high scoring Danny Testa, as one of his principal ball carriers.

Warner supervised a long forward passing drill and tried out some new plays. Heavy scrimmaging has been continued until the team goes south on Thursday.

GORMAN GETS 20 POINTS TO SET BASKET RECORD

Four teams of Division No. 2 in the Municipal Basketball League, will attempt to duplicate the "hot" scoring bee on exhibition in last night's third round games of Division No. 1 at Sherman Park Community Center.

In the opener, the Golubs, defending tri-champions, play the A. A. A. five, while in the second contest the North St. Louis Turners oppose the Young Democratic Club. All four clubs are tied for the lead, with a victory and a defeat each.

Last night the St. Louis Pabs whipped the National Olympics, 49-34, in the first contest, after which the Y. M. H. A. surprised the Affton Boosters by triumphing, 32-27. Thus, the two winning quintets averaged a point a minute, while all four managed to average 35 points apiece.

Capt. Martin Gorman of the Pabs put in a point every two minutes, as he pocketed six field goals and eight free throws for a total of 20. The season's individual record of missed one foul shots, which he missed only two foul shots, and played an unselfish floor game, passing frequently even when he might have risked a shot.

Billiard Association Plans Another Drive To Revive Interest

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—In order to revive amateur interest in cue-sport, the National Billiard Association is lining up star professional performers to conduct a series of instruction and exhibitions in 1500 palas de billiards throughout the country.

Instead of holding the annual world championship tournaments, such cue artists as Welker Cochran, world 18.2 ballkline champion, Kinney Matsuyama, national three-cushion titlist, and others will go from city to city, demonstrating their art.

"Golf, tennis, swimming and the other competitive pastimes each has a class of outstanding amateurs who are equally as skillful in the sport as the professionals," said C. A. Storer, president of the N. B. A. "The amateur billiards player, however, because of lack of qualified teachers, is facing comparative extinction. It is the purpose of the N. B. A. to revive amateur interest."

DR. HUGH MAGILL ATTACKS

GOVERNMENT POWER POLICY

Says Threat of Federal Competition Cost Investors in Utilities Billions.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—Dr. Hugh S. Magill, president of the American Federation of Utility Investors, last night asserted that "citizens have suffered losses amounting to billions of dollars in the value of their securities because of the threat of destructive Government competition and exorbitant taxation."

Claiming his organization represented 1,000,000 investors in utility securities, Dr. Magill's statement accused the Federal Trade Commission of "throwing out a smoke screen to befog the public mind in its desire to win approval for the entry of the Federal Government into the power business through such efforts as the Tennessee Valley Authority."

The "smoke screen," he said, was the commission's pronouncement to the effect that public utility companies had boosted pre-depression prices in which investors afterward lost millions of dollars.

"Whatever the evils of utility promotion prior to 1929, the whole industry cannot be condemned for the errors of a few," he said. "The truth is that actually several million citizens who wish to be self-supporting and to pay their just share in support of the Government have suffered losses amounting to billions of dollars in the value of their securities because of the threat of destructive Government competition and exorbitant taxation."

EXTORTION CHARGE DISMISSED

Federal Court Drops Action Against Baltimore Architect.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—Extortion charges against Edmund R. Harris Jr., Baltimore architect, were dismissed in Federal Court by Judge John P. Barnes yesterday. Harris, indicted on charges of sending an extortion letter to Mrs. Mary Cave Hall, then a defendant in a $100,000 alienation of affections suit, was arrested in Los Angeles and returned to Chicago for trial.

The charge resulted from a letter he was alleged to have written Mrs. Hall saying he could be of service in her defense against the suit of Mrs. Grace Williamson Willet, divorced wife of Howard Willet, wealthy clubman. Counsel for Harris offered five handwriting experts to prove that the letter was not written by Harris.

WIFE OF CLOTHIER SCHAFFNER

DISAPPEARS AT CARMEL, CAL.

Clad in Nightgown and Fur Coat, She Apparently Wandered From Home.

CARMEL, Cal., Dec. 19.—The rugged country and beaches around Carmel were searched today for Mrs. Eliot Boko Schaffner, 39-year-old member of the wealthy clothing family. Apparently clad only in nightgown, bedroom slippers and a fur coat, she disappeared between midnight and dawn yesterday from her isolated home on the southern tip of this artists' village. Released only Monday from Monterey Hospital, where she was taken 10 days ago for a rest, fears were felt Mrs. Schaffner may have wandered into the ocean surf of Carmel Bay or into the tidal mouth of the Carmel River, both close to her home.

After a day of secret search by the village police, bloodhounds were brought by airplane from Berkeley to Monterey County during the night to join the hunt. The woman's husband, Joseph H. Schaffner, a director of Hart Schaffner & Marx, was flying to Carmel from Chicago. The pair divided their time between New York, Chicago, Carmel and San Francisco, 135 miles north of here. Mrs. Schaffner's sister, Mrs. Marion Todd of San Francisco, early this morning reached the Carmel home from which the search is being directed.

Mrs. Schaffner's disappearance was discovered yesterday morning when a maid took breakfast to her room only to find it deserted.

Mrs. Schaffner, daughter of the late Prof. George Boko, former dean of the University of California law school, was alone in her isolated home except for her 2-year-old daughter and servants.

BILL TO PERMIT PRESS CENSORSHIP IN TIME OF WAR

Col. C. T. Harris, U. S. A.

Thinks That Would Be Possible Under War Department Proposal.

EIGHT MEASURES ON ITS PROGRAM

Senator Clark Says He Will Introduce All of Them, Seeking Congress' Reaction in Peace-Time.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Among the bills which the War Department has prepared to be introduced in Congress in the event of war, one that might enable the President to establish a complete censorship over the press, it was learned out at today's session of the Senate munitions inquiry. Equally sweeping powers would be conferred on him by the others. In fact, the result of the bills would be the establishment of a presidential dictatorship.

Col. C. T. Harris of the Army procurement staff said the measures were drafted last year by law officers and others at the Department. Persistent efforts have been made to prevent them from becoming public.

"Censorship of the Press."
The bill would empower the President in war-time to determine what are "essential commodities," and to regulate their manufacture and sale. Now, as a matter of fact, under a provision it would be perfectly feasible to establish a complete censorship of the press, wouldn't it?" asked Senator Clark. "I don't see exactly how," replied Col. Harris.

Well, suppose the President wanted to declare pulp paper and printers ink "essential commodities." The practical result could be complete suppression of any newspaper, since the administration's pressures, could it not?" "I suppose it could."

Pierre du Pont interrupted to ask whether such action would be constitutional. Clark replied that a few points of law were involved, but it was entirely possible that such action by the President might be upheld by the courts in war-time.

To Offer Eight Bills.
Clark announced his intention of introducing all of the eight bills in the Senate on the first day that Congress is in session.

Clark said that he intended in any sense to support them, but I believe that Congress should have the opportunity to scrutinize them before he said, "Everybody knows that if they were sent up to the Senate they would pass without troubling to read."

He introduced a copy of an amendment published last February by the Jensen brokerage firm of Boston, headed "War Bonds Again," and stating that in the event of war in Europe, the firm was propitious to buy munitions.

While we may regret the social conditions of war, it went on, "the business possibilities are so tremendous that they must not be overlooked."

The War Department's attitude toward the Remington and Winchester companies also was a subject of inquiry. In one order of the War Department, 1,000,000 Remingtons were defective. The company was permitted to rework it.

However, Remington was not satisfied in inducing the army to buy its primer, and one Remington official wrote that the War Department "has fallen for du Pont's propaganda."

It was shown that, while the Government is making a certain type of Army cartridge at a cost of $3.50 a thousand at Frankfort Arsenal, while the price of private manufacturers ranged up to $35. The manufacturers pointed out that the Government pays no taxes and has no reserves.

Clark disclosed that guns and ammunition made at the Government Arsenal at Frankfort was sold to the Mexican Government in 1929 under the permission of the late Secretary of War, M. Good, then Secretary of War. The committee indicated that it intended to explore this transaction.

A committee investigator subsequently told the writer that sales of Government-made munitions were made to other Latin-American Governments, and were made in other years besides 1929.

Frankfort has sent plenty of word down there," he remarked.

PARAGUAY REFUSES LEAGUE OF NATIONS PEACE OFFER

Indications Point to Indefinite Continuation of Fighting in Chaco — 17 Other Proposals to End War Rejected.

By the Associated Press.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Dec. 19.—Paraguay has cabled a rejection of the League of Nations' latest peace plan to Geneva and probabilities of a fight to the finish with Bolivia in the Chaco jungles seem stronger than ever.

Since Bolivia's acceptance of the plan had been based provisionally upon Paraguay's acceptance, prospects for early cessation of hostilities faded into the background along with 17 previous peace proposals submitted by the League and neutral nations since June, 1932.

The opposing armies are facing each other westward of the sixtieth second meridian, the recently victorious Paraguayans menacing Bolivian positions even beyond the limits of the Chaco, in their own provinces of Tarija and Santa Cruz.

Bolivia is reported to be mobilizing reserves to the age of 49 in hopes of forming a new army of 100,000 men to stem the Paraguayan advance.

The Paraguayan rejection, based largely on a report of Gen. Jose Estigarribia, commander of the war forces in the Chaco, objected to the "uncertain state in which the parties would remain after suspension of hostilities" under a proposed truce.

It said these conditions would make it impossible to discuss certain urgent matters like the return of Bolivian prisoners, "which by number and quality constitute an army very superior to that which Bolivia now has in the Chaco."

One of the main Paraguayan points was that hostilities might easily be renewed while negotiations for peace were in progress, under conditions imposed by the peace plan depriving Paraguay of her present advantages.

It also said Paraguay would not consider having a world court arbitrate Bolivia's claims to an outlet in the Paraguay River, a possible contingency under the present wording of the peace plan.

Another point was Paraguay's insistence that the aggressor be named, which Paraguay says has been overlooked in the League's plan.

Finally the warring nation proposed to "exclusively co-operate in the re-establishment of a plan to assure immediate and definite cessation of fighting and to negotiate for peace in an amiable and propitious solution of reason and justice."

Testifying at the closing of a hearing, George L. Mooney, secretary of the National Cheese Institute, and C. W. Holman, secretary of the National Co-operative Milk Producers' Federation, said the Swiss cheese industry in this country was expanding rapidly and plans were being made to go into export business. Wisconsin, Ohio and Illinois produce 90 per cent of the American Swiss cheese, but the industry is expanding in Pennsylvania and six other states, they said.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Dec. 19.—Prince Paul, head of the reGENCY, entrusted Former Foreign Minister Bogolyub Yevitch today with the task of forming a new cabinet.

Yevitch was instructed to set up a concentration government as widely representative as possible of the various national interests.

It was the resignation of the foreign minister, credited with Yugoslavia's victory over Hungary at Geneva, that led to yesterday's cabinet crisis.

NEWLY-DISCOVERED STAR INCREASES IN BRILLIANCE

Has Changed From Third to Second Magnitude Since Last Friday.

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 19.—A brilliant star discovered by an English astronomer last Friday was declared last night by Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard Observatory, to be possibly "the most important stellar outburst ever witnessed."

Since Friday it has increased in brilliance from third to second magnitude and now is exceeded in apparent brightness by only 60 other stars.

A month ago, Dr. Shapley said, it was recorded on Harvard plates, re-examined since the announcement of the English amateur, as a star of only fifteenth magnitude, far below the range of visual observation. Since that time its explosive outburst has increased the brightness of the star more than 100,000 times.

The star is in the constellation Hercules not far from the bright star Vega in Lyra. In the early morning it is seen in the northeast.

ROOSEVELT WOULD REMOVE CONGRESSIONAL LIBRARY DOME

Thinks Building Is Architecturally

Structures.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—President Roosevelt thinks the Congressional Library building is "out of tune" with its new neighbors—the new Supreme Court Building, the new House office building and other recent structures on Capitol Hill.

He has requested David Lynn, Capitol architect, to draw up plans for refacing the structure and removing the dome. The Congressional Library is housed in an Italian Renaissance building, while its neighbors are of the Classic school.

The changes which would bring it into architectural harmony with the other buildings would cost about $1,000,000.

BRIEFS AGAINST GOLD PAYMENTS ON RAIL BONDS

Government Presents Argument Opposing Proposal for 69-Cent Premium on Each Dollar.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—The Justice Department presented to the Supreme Court yesterday its argument that bondholders of the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway should not receive the 69-cent premium on each dollar which they would receive if paid in currency the equivalent of the gold dollars their contracts call for.

The argument was put before the court in briefs on two cases filed by the Bankers' Trust Co. and William H. Bixby, holders of first mortgage bonds, demanding payment in gold or its equivalent in currency.

Cummings' Argument.
Attorney-General Cummings argued that the gold clause in the bonds imposed an obligation to pay in gold coin and not in currency equivalent to the value of the gold. He added that payment in gold coin was impossible and illegal and that the holders could only recover in lawful money the face amount of the debt.

Had gold coin been paid when the bonds fell due, the bondholders could not have realized on it, he said, more than the face amount in lawful money, nor could they, he said, have used the coin to greater advantage in the purchase of goods or the payment of debts.

The Government contended that to pay the equivalent of gold would require $1.69 for each dollar.

Ruling at St. Louis.
Gold payments were declared contrary to public policy and prohibited by Congress last year. The first mortgage bonds of the railroad were made payable in gold. In these cases, Federal District Judge Paris at St. Louis declared such payments "impossible in fact and in law," and said the bondholders were entitled to payment only "in such lawful money as was legal tender."

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has lent the railroad $23,134,800, which can be repaid only after the first mortgage bonds are paid. The Government feared that if the bondholders compelled payment amounting to the full value of the gold, the railroad would have trouble in repaying the RFC.

The Government also has a claim against the railroad for $5,000,000 for unpaid taxes.

To expedite the decision, the Supreme Court agreed to pass on the question without waiting for a ruling by the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Famous French Woman Spy

Transcribing of His Letters to Marie Louise Will Take Several Months.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, Dec. 19.—Experts at the National Library are transcribing the newly-acquired collection of more than 300 letters written by Napoleon to his Empress, Marie Louise.

Because of Napoleon's scrawl, the yellowed letters, which were bought in London, are difficult to read. They contain a curious mixture of French and Italian dialects. It will be several months before all the texts are completed.

In the first letter, dated March, 1810, grandiloquent phrases disclosed Napoleon as an imperial wooer. He addresses Marie Louise as "Madame" in the first letters, but later in his romance with the haughty Austrian Archduchess he calls her "My Dearest."

Two Hours' Sleep a Day.
He urges that she enjoy herself during his absence. Throughout the Russian and German campaigns, he found time to correspond. From Russia he wrote: "I am on horseback from 2 a. m. on. I sleep only two hours daily and review my troops the rest of the time. I beat the Russians yesterday—an army of 120,000 men. The victory was wonderful, but I had plenty of casualties."

Then, switching to his sentimental preoccupations, he writes: "Your letters are as charming as you and show the beauty of your soul. Love me as I love you, if that is possible."

Returning to the role of the man of war, he tells the Empress: "I have abandoned Moscow. It took 20,000 men to keep that city." He promises the separation shall be short: "You know how much I love you. I must hear you are well and happy. Good-by, my love. A thousand kisses."

Other letters show how Napoleon sought to have Marie Louise use her influence with her father, the Austrian Emperor, to whom he refers as "Papa Franz."

Last Letter From Elba.
After the battle of Dresden, he indirectly chides Marie Louise with "Papa Franz's troops were never worse," and later: "Tell father we would rather die than take a shameful peace."

Then came Napoleon's defeat and the letters express tenderly his concern for the Empress' health and safety. The last letter, from Elba, Aug. 23, 1814, states: "I long to see you and my son."

Itself.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Dec. 19.—The House of Lords, by a vote of 239 to 62, last night rejected an amendment to the Government's proposal of wider self-government for India, and then without division passed a motion approving the principles of the report.

The House of Commons approved it, also by a large majority, last week. The way is now clear for introduction of the legislation itself, a bill of more than 300 clauses which the Government declares "must be passed."

ICELAND REPEALS PROHIBITION

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Dec. 19.—Iceland repealed prohibition yesterday, advice reaching here from Reykjavik said.

The doom of prohibition in Iceland, officially repealed yesterday, was decided by popular referendum Oct. 23, 1933, when Little Island went wet by a vote of 15,884 to 11,624. At that time, however, the Government failed to introduce a bill in Parliament legalizing the sale of spirituous liquors and at its closing session of 1933 the legislative body passed a resolution urging that the action be taken in 1934.

Iceland had been a prohibition country since 1913 when a dry law was imposed upon her by the mother country, Denmark. In 1915 her own Parliament affirmed the prohibition law.

Mr. Mellon's 1931 Income.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I AM sure that the revelation of Andrew Mellon's $15,351,568 gross income in 1931 has been received with deep satisfaction by the general public, which can now relax in contemplation of the industrial nation's well-being.

Of course, I have no way of knowing just how much of that sum was actual net profit, but it is a fascinating figure nevertheless, in a Mae West sort of way. Let us examine it by looking at some of its combinations. The left-hand figures represent annual incomes, and those on the right the number of such incomes that could be provided by Mr. Mellon's $15,351,568:

2,000	7,675
5,000	3,071
10,000	1,535
20,000	767
50,000	307
100,000	153

If the casual reader thinks that this arithmetic is designed to point a finger at Mr. Mellon, I should like to allay the suspicion by the following token: Since money is one of the roots of evil and a person in possession of money thereby is susceptible to that evil, it follows that the more general the possession of money becomes, the more widespread the evil is likely to be. Hence, the more effectively we realize this root of evil from the ignorant masses, the less prevalent the consequent evil becomes.

Therefore, gentlemen of resignation, a toast to the species, humanity's guided saint, and to the process, humanity's armored taint.

If still water runs deep, should it be still?

"The Scarcity Theory."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOUR editorial, "The Scarcity Theory," is the finest thing published in the United States in many a day.

If all of our great metropolitan papers would follow your lead in expounding such sound philosophy, we might begin to hope that there is a way out.

We have read so much "cockeyed" theorizing that it has been hard to keep our feet on the ground and beginning to preach sound doctrine once more, perhaps it is not entirely hopeless after all.

I want to thank you.

A Test of Auto Drivers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

AS a reader of Dr. Wiggam's column, I feel it incumbent upon me to call attention to a recent article appearing therein relative to tests on the powers of observation of automobile drivers. They were carried out by Alvin R. Lauer and Harold L. Kotvis by using a moving canvas before the subject, which gave the impression of driving on a highway with all its signals, turns, obstructions, etc. Their conclusion was that the tests proved that the older drivers responded less quickly than the younger drivers, with the further conclusion that every driver should be compelled to undergo similar tests.

While I do not dispute the fact that the tests were interesting, it is obvious that the results obtained are exactly what one would expect from an adult mind as compared to the mind of youth.

Youth with all its imagination responds instantly to the "make-believe" places; the adult with the training of actual experience sees the "make-believe" danger, recognizes it as such and consequently responds less quickly to the test.

In reality, the adult mind in 99 cases out of 100 would react more quickly and correctly to the hazards incident to actual driving as compared to the reactions of youth in similar circumstances.

Fish vs. Human Life.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I READ with interest your editorial on the disposal of St. Louis garbage by the method proposed by Mr. McDewitt.

You are overlooking, as most people do in such instances, the angle of its significance to public health. While waiting for the powers that be to plan and operate a really modern garbage disposal plant (merely a matter of years and years) will you permit our city garbage to pollute the very air that thousands must breathe in the neighborhood of its dumping place?

Think of the billions of flies and disease-carrying flies invading homes and dipping their proboscides into food, milk, etc. Are you willing to tolerate this state of affairs for many years to come because, while waiting for a permanent solution of the problem, a few insignificant fish may be asphyxiated in the Mississippi below St. Louis?

Is it always consider the safety of human life far ahead of any aquatic life?

PUBLIC HEALTH.

THE JUDICIAL COUNCIL'S OPPORTUNITY.

Missouri's new Judicial Council, recently appointed by the Supreme Court, has before it an opportunity of extraordinary usefulness to the State. Its task is to study our judicial system and the practice of law and to recommend improvements. Merely to state the field of its activity is to indicate how much good it can do. That our procedure and practice, particularly in criminal law, is in dire need of thorough overhauling is a matter of common knowledge. Hardly a day passes without some glaring instance of faults in criminal law being reported in the newspapers.

As it happens, much of the spadework of the new Judicial Council has already been done for it. In 1928, the Missouri Association for Criminal Justice published a volume of nearly 600 pages, entitled "The Missouri Crime Survey," in which the whole field of criminal procedure in the State was minutely examined and many recommendations for its improvement set forth. We hope the Judicial Council will lose no time in setting about its task and that, from "The Missouri Crime Survey" and other sources, it will present a program of reform to the next session of the Legislature.

Judge R. E. Culver of St. Joseph, chairman of the Judicial Council, expresses his personal view that the election of Judges should be divorced from partisan politics. He intends to present this idea to the council. It will be recalled that prior to the last election, the president of the St. Louis Bar Association and eight past presidents signed a statement containing the following passage:

We believe that the judiciary should be non-partisan and should be elected on a non-partisan basis. The Judge's duties are such that a party label is of no importance. Experience, learning and integrity are the sole and only qualifications required of a Judge.

Judge Culver mentions the possibility of having Judges appointed by the Governor from lists of eligible lawyers recommended by the bar of the State. Or, he would nominate and elect Judges at elections separate from those in which other offices are filled. Either plan would be a vast improvement over the present system.

Speaking before the national crime conference recently, President Scott M. Loftin, president of the American Bar Association, said:

No matter how perfect the machinery for the detection and apprehension of criminals, how able and effective the prosecution, how conscientious the Judges, there will be a failure of justice if the Judges are not fair and unbiased and are not free from political or other influence.

In this connection, it is interesting to note that California has just adopted a constitutional amendment embodying a novel method of selecting Judges. The amendment, applying only to Los Angeles County, provides that all Judges shall reach the bench of the Superior Court by appointment of the Governor, but the Governor is restricted in his choice. He can appoint only men suggested by a board consisting of the Chief Justice of the California Supreme Court, the presiding Justice of the Appellate Court of the district and the State Senator of the county.

This board must furnish the Governor with a list of not more than three nor less than two names for each vacancy. Once appointed, a Judge will serve, barring recall, for a term of not less than four years. Thereafter, he will come up for re-election every six years, but his only opponent will be his own record. That is, there will be no opposing candidate. If the voters approve his record, they will vote "yes." If the contrary is true, they will vote "no." If the "noes" are in the majority, the office becomes vacant and the Governor makes another appointment from the list of eligibles furnished by the board.

California's experiment may or may not be suitable for Missouri. We mention it merely to show that there is a ferment working to divorce the bench from politics. The Judicial Council, if it will, can accomplish this reform. It can also accomplish numerous other reforms for lack of which hundreds of criminals now go unwhipped of justice. We look forward with great expectations to the council's accomplishments.

THE TOWN HALL AGAIN.

Some imp of mischief may have nudged Clotho's elbow when she was spinning the web of Washington's latest forum, the Town Hall. We have had occasion previously to observe that the distinguished sponsors of the organization were branded a crowd of "crackbrains" by Silas Strawn, who reinforced his epithet with the ultimatum that the club, which held its first meeting in the paneled splendor of the home of the United States Chamber of Commerce, should not again be permitted to forage under that roof.

Now comes Norman Thomas, who, as a guest lecturer, remarked that Postmaster-General Farley is "a symbol for something which I don't think we need to have." The characterization seems to us somewhat vague, but as a criticism of the gentleman in question, it is a pallid thrust. But it deeply offended Attorney-General Cummings, who, at the close of the speech, took Mr. Thomas to task. "You owe Mr. Farley an apology, and I hope you will write him a letter," said Mr. Cummings, and when Mr. Thomas spiritily declined, omitted the conventional handshake.

This emotional explosion of Mr. Cummings is hard to understand. Indeed, if a censor had examined Mr. Thomas' text, he might have deleted the estimate of Mr. Farley with the explanation that Mr. Thomas was "pulling his punches." For Mr. Farley isn't a symbol. As regards the doctrine of party spoils, he is the real thing, the reincarnated Hickory. Jacksonian to the marrow. He is gaily wondering, we imagine, just what Mr. Cummings got mad about.

It is the Town Hall complex.

STOKOWSKI AND MODERN MUSIC.

When he resigned after conducting the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra for 22 years, Leopold Anton Stanislaw Stokowski dropped a sudden thunderbolt into the ranks of a complacent audience, many of whom occupied inherited seats for the concert season. The stated explanation: that there were "deeply differing differences" with the orchestra's board and that no successor to his sparring partner of many years, Manager Arthur Judson, had yet been appointed.

Away from Philadelphia, people have been quick to supply additional causes. Most spurious of all, perhaps, is the suggestion that Mr. Stokowski's audience couldn't stand so much modern music. But Irish-Polish Stokowski has never been genuinely radical, and his recent programs have been perhaps too much on the other side.

As a matter of fact, St. Louis has almost the only major orchestra which plays no modern works of any size or weight. The last four Sibelius symphonies, generally conceded to be the ripest bloom of the present musical period, have yet to be heard in a St. Louis auditorium. When they are, it is safe to prophesy that they will bring only warm gratitude to the conductor who introduces them.

For the time being, we shall have to accept Mr. Stokowski's explanations at their face value.

SANTA CLAUS IN THE COUNTY.

Judges Schramm and Wehmeyer of the St. Louis County Court have just voted to increase their salaries from $375 to $500 per month, and to award themselves back pay amounting to $2750. The third member of the court, Judge Schumacher, took his increase and back pay last spring. Messrs. Schumacher, Schramm and Wehmeyer are all retiring from office Jan. 1.

The authority for the County Court's action is an old law providing that Judges in counties of more than 300,000 population should receive $500 a month. Lest someone rise to say that St. Louis County has a population of only 212,000, we hasten to add that the same old statute prescribed a method for computing population. The method is to multiply by five the vote at the last general election. By this method, invented before women could vote, St. Louis County has a theoretical population of 480,000. So the County Judges are entitled to the extra money. Catch on?

There is no money in the salary fund and many county employees have not been paid for several months, so the Judges took the money for their salary increases and back pay out of the contingent fund.

Who said that there is no Santa Claus?

A FINE CHURCH STAND.

The recent report of the Executive Committee of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, the organization which has just chosen the Rev. Ivan Lee Holt of St. Louis as its president, is a church paper which deserves attention outside religious circles as well as within them. Recognizing, among other things, the popular disapproval of church lobbies, the report remarks that "social thinkers find the use of pressure tactics upon agents of government especially objectionable when directed against habits and convictions of racial and cultural minorities."

From that heartening observation, the report of this national body of Protestant clergymen goes on to the subject of prohibition. The committee, it says, "does not arrive at any single and invariable version of the moral idea of temperance." In view of this, "the attempt to line up the church as a unit behind national prohibition or behind prohibition as the sole policy of dealing with liquor in smaller communities is apparently one which cannot now command assent." The report concludes:

The alternative appears to be the attempt to unite both prohibitionists and other friends of temperance in securing the maximum practical realization of the common objectives of temperance through policies which may vary from community to community and which frankly involve experiments to see what actual results occur.

This approach to the liquor problem is both sane and realistic. The Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America does much for the co-operative effort in behalf of a temperate nation in accepting it.

Russia reports increased steel production. In fact, Moscow is going along at the pace that kills.

THE YEARLY WAGE.

In at least one important respect, the contentions of the automobile workers at the current hearings before a presidential board rest on solid ground. They say that the important factor to the worker, in any wage arrangement, is what he gets for a year. It is peculiarly appropriate that this should be brought out in a hearing on the automobile industry, in which there is great irregularity of employment.

We hear much about wage scales—hour scales. Computations based on such scales are often delusive. A high rate of pay per hour does not necessarily connote a well-paid worker. The test of whether or not a worker is well paid is the size of his annual wage. This fact would seem axiomatic, but it is often overlooked in talk about wages. We cannot say that we have solved the problem of providing an adequate purchasing power for the people until we have succeeded in giving the workers an adequate income, on a yearly basis. The automobile workers have helped to clarify an issue that goes to the roots of the whole depression.

For a sure-fire get-rich-quick game, say the munitions makers, give us war.

ANOTHER ONE-CHAMBER LEGISLATURE PROPOSED.

The unicameral legislature—adopted in Nebraska, on the agenda in California—appears to have won another convert, in the Philippines. A constitutional convention is busy at Manila, drafting a code for the islands when their promised independence takes effect, in about 10 years. Now that the form of Legislature has been reached in the deliberations, the one-chamber plan seems likely of adoption, according to a dispatch to the New York Times.

It is interesting to note that the argument which carried most weight for the plan was that of economy. Figures were presented to show the high cost of the present two-chamber Legislature, with its large membership, and it was pointed out that much of this expense would be saved by the one-chamber plan. This is an important inducement to the Philippine Commonwealth, getting ready to steer its own bark with greatly reduced revenues. It is an inducement of equal force in most of our own states.

One argument against the plan—that, since the United States Government retained the bicameral plan, it would disapprove any other method in the Philippines—seems an unwarranted fear. The second argument—that of checks and balances made possible by the two-chamber method—is worthy of more consideration. Only a test will show whether the loss of this factor will be outweighed by the greater efficiency, elimination of political logrolling and of rule by committee embodied in the one-chamber system. The Nebraska experiment and the possible ventures in California and the Philippines will be worth watching by the states that want more light on the unicameral system's workings before trying it themselves.

The Byrd expedition has discovered coal in Antarctica. A pretty fair gold mine, too.

"MY LAWYERS SHALL HEAR ABOUT THIS."

TODAY AND TOMORROW

By Walter Lippmann

Mr. Richberg's Assignment

CONSIDERING the way in which the New Deal is organized in Washington, it is a marvel that things have gone as well as they have. For, in spite of the fact that the New Dealers have had much to say about "planning," the New Deal never has had and does not now have any effective organ for planning its enormously ramified activities. It is focused on the mind of the President. It is surely beyond the capacity of any one mind to do all the planning, and experience has shown that in vital matters it has not been done.

Thus, to cite a few conspicuous examples, a delegation was sent to the world economic conference in London with a mandate to stabilize the exchanges and negotiate a reduction of tariffs. In Washington, the President was following advice of monetary experts opposed to stabilization; he was setting up the NRA on a foundation which made any reduction of tariffs impossible.

The AAA was organized to bring depressed farm prices up to "parity" with the relatively high industrial prices. Shortly afterward, the NRA set to work on a policy which raised industrial prices.

A large appropriation was made for public works, "in order to prime the pump." When it was administered, it accepted a scale of prices and wages so far above the prevailing level of prices and wages in other occupations that it discouraged rather than encouraged the revival of private construction.

These are perhaps the most important, but they are certainly not the only instances of how one activity of the New Deal ran afoul of other activities.

That the administration recognizes the need of co-ordination is shown by its many attempts to co-ordinate itself. A convenient record of these attempts is to be found in a very useful book called "New Federal Organizations," published by the Brookings Institution.

The first attempt was on July 11, 1933. An Executive Council was created consisting of the President, his secretary, Frank C. Walker, the 10 members of the Cabinet, the Director of the Budget and nine heads of new emergency establishments.

Four months later, on Nov. 17, 1933, a National Emergency Council was created. It consisted of four Cabinet members, five emergency administrators and a representative of the Consumers' Council. A month later, three more officials, the Attorney-General, the Director of the Budget and the chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, were added.

On March 23, Mr. Peek was set up in the office of Special Adviser on Foreign Trade and assigned the duty of co-ordinating activities having to do with foreign trade. On June 27, a committee representing six departments was created to co-ordinate activities having to do with tariff agreements. On June 30, an Industrial Emergency Committee was created to co-ordinate "relief, public works, labor disputes and industrial recovery."

The book from which I take this information stops on June 30. But co-ordinating goes on. Since June, there has been an even greater effort to co-ordinate. On Oct. 31, the three main co-ordinating councils were co-ordinated as the National Emergency Council. It has, if I have counted correctly, 34 members, including the President, the whole Cabinet, all the emergency Administrators of any importance and some other officials. The executive organ rather candidly admits that a council of 34 persons will itself need to be co-ordinated. So Mr. Richberg, as Executive Director, is given authority "to execute the functions and to perform the duties vested in the council."

Without any reflection upon Mr. Richberg's very high abilities, it may be said, I think, that he has an impossible assignment. Human nature being what it is, does anyone suppose that the whole Cabinet, the powerful heads of the great spending organizations, potentates like the Governor of the Federal Reserve Board and the head of the RFC are going to subordinate themselves in the matter of high policy to a man who, apart from his personal prestige, is merely general counsel for the NRA, on leave of absence? It is extremely unlikely.

They may let him arbitrate their minor jurisdictional disputes. But in the great matters, they will inevitably go through him and over him to the President, and there will be only as much co-ordination as the mind of one man can achieve.

Mr. Roosevelt would not have made so many efforts to lighten his burden if he did not realize that it is intolerably heavy for any man, and that potentially it is extremely dangerous. The question then arises as to what has been wrong with all these efforts to create an effective organ for determining questions of high policy.

In theory, that organ ought to be the Cabinet. In fact, the Cabinet has not been such an organ for a long time. In emergencies, like the war and this depression, the old Cabinet just does not work as a policy-making body. It contains too many men appointed for partisan reasons; it is ridden by traditions of departmental jealousy; most of the members are preoccupied with their own problems.

When new emergency agencies have to be created, they are generally set up outside the old departments; their chiefs owe allegiance to the President but not to his Cabinet. Thus everything centers on the President, because neither the old Cabinet nor the new agencies will take orders from anyone but the President.

There would seem to be two possible ways of meeting this situation. One would be to create a small committee of the Cabinet, to relieve its members of administrative responsibility and forbid Administrators to announce policies until the Cabinet committee has approved. This would, however, require a change in the personnel of the Cabinet, for such a committee would be useless unless it consisted of the President's most trusted advisers. It may, therefore, not be feasible.

The other way would be to enlarge the White House staff by adding to it men competent to examine proposals and advise the President. These advisers would stand behind the President, not in front of him. The heads of departments would still be dealing with the President, which is what they really insist upon doing. But the President in dealing with them would be advised by men who are not harassed by office routine and are not concerned with the prestige of departments.

Under such a scheme, for example, the Government would not report to the President through Mr. Richberg, as in theory

Fighting the Spoils System

From the New York World Telegram

LIKE his dragon-killing patron saint, Senator George Norris is bucking his armor for a duel with one of the Republic's toughest enemies—the spoils system. His pledge to fight for the merit system will be cheered by a tax-ridden and debt-weary land.

The menace is real. Civil Service Commission figures do not flatter the Roosevelt administration. They show less than 70 per cent of all Federal employees in the executive branches under civil service. Since inauguration, the number outside of civil service has increased from 19,699 to 24,000, or nearly 100 per cent.

This huge rise in the number of unprotected Federal jobs is due, of course, to the sudden expansion of emergency services. Outstanding exceptions among the politically manned alphabetical units are the Farm Credit Administration, put under civil service by the President, and the Tennessee Valley Authority. Congress, under Norris amendment, saved TVA from the spoils.

President Roosevelt's spirit is willing, he and his Cabinet frequently voice loyalty to the merit plan. But the flesh is weak. Pressure from hungry and more or less servile Democrats is constant and unrelenting. The appetite for pork knows no bounds. And Postmaster-General Farley, as chairman of the Democratic National Committee, keeps the patronage flowing.

In this trend is a danger to democratic government. Heretofore America has been rich enough to afford waste and inefficiency in government. From now on, government will cost enough even if every dollar is wisely spent. The times call for a new and more patriotic attitude on the part of ruling politicians toward the public service.

A government is no stronger than its officials. The patronage product is the kind on which the New Deal can rely safely.

AND THEN BILBO.

From the Kansas City Times

THE Senate writes Senator Charles McNary of Washington, in the Saturday Evening Post, "has its own way of making radicals, toning them down, making them a little more regular year by year. And when is that process going to begin with Huey of Louisiana, and how long will it take to calm and tone him down to the snoring position of a regular amateur regular?"

It is now supposed to do. It would report to the President, and Mr. Richberg and a small competent staff would advise the President what these reports mean.

To make such a scheme work, the President's advisers ought to take the time and become as inconspicuous as possible. That is a hard order for Mr. Richberg's prospects as a co-ordinator that he has made many and such excellent speeches. He ought to deliver no speeches, publish no books, make no appearance before congressional committees, sponsor no legislation, write no letters of introduction for job-seekers and contractors, lay no correspondence and kiss no babies.

In short, they should learn the lesson taught by the history of the Brain Trust, which is, that advisers on policy are useful only as they accept no administrative careers on the front page of the newspapers. For on the executive side of the American Government—I carefully exclude Congress and the courts—the front page is a presidential monopoly, and advisers, co-ordinators, experts forget that at their peril.

GIRL AND YOUTH WED AFTER HE IS SENTENCED TO PRISON

She, An Expectant Mother, Admits Taking Part in Robberies in East.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 19.—Helen Saari, 19 years old, was married yesterday to Louis Roy, 23, shortly after the youth was sentenced to 20 to 40 years in Western penitentiary.

The pair were arrested in Cleveland recently after a shoe store robbery in Pittsburgh. Roy, released from Sing Sing a year ago, said he committed about 50 robberies since that time and the girl admitted she took part in some of them.

Just before he was sentenced, Roy made a plea for the girl, saying, "Judge, she didn't know what it's all about. I told her I'd put her on the street if she didn't go on these holdups with me."

She interrupted, declaring, "he didn't make me go. I went because I loved him. I was afraid he'd leave me if I didn't go."

Although he did not sentence the girl, Judge William H. McNaughton denied her attorney's plea for a parole on the ground that she expects to become a mother. The pair then were married in a room adjoining the Sheriff's office. They were taken to their respective cells.

AUTO CODE TRADE-IN SECTION HELD VALID

Florida Federal Court Denies Contention That Interstate Commerce Is Not Involved.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Dec. 19.—Federal District Judge A. V. Long yesterday upheld the constitutionality of the trade-in features of the motor vehicle retailing code under the NRA, and issued a temporary restraining order against James Messer, Inc., Tallahassee automobile dealers, enjoining them from violating its provisions.

The dealers, while denying Government charges that they had taken secondhand cars in trade for new ones at higher prices than those provided by the code, also attacked the code as an attempt by Congress to regulate purely intrastate dealings.

They contended that a new car, after it is bought by a dealer for resale within a state, loses its interstate character and becomes an article of intrastate commerce. "I am holding that this case involves interstate commerce," Judge Long told attorneys in explaining his ruling. "The new cars were ordered from another state and were shipped in interstate commerce for the purpose of resale. In selling them to the public there was a flow in the same current of interstate commerce, and interstate commerce is affected by the prices of secondhand cars taken in trade for them."

CHRISTMAS SALES UP IN 1934

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Department store members of the National Retail Dry Goods Association have reported that Christmas sales this year will be at least 16 per cent ahead of those in 1933.

In 70 leading cities from Maine to California the association received word that sales from Thanksgiving to the middle of December were not only ahead of last year, but were almost equal to those in 1931, and the best in any of the three years since that time.

8000 PROCTER & GAMBLE EMPLOYEES TO GET BONUS

Payment Said to Equal 4 Per Cent of Yearly Earnings of Workers.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 19.—Directors of the Procter & Gamble Co. yesterday ordered payment of what they called "practically a bonus" of 4 per cent of wages earned in 1934 to about 8000 employees of the concern.

The sums, said R. R. Deupree, president of the company, were voted as profit-sharing because of hardships that had fallen on many in the last few years. The amounts were ordered paid as soon as practicable. Those benefiting are employees falling within the profit-sharing range, or earning $2000 or less a year, who were employed by the company on Oct. 1.

By the Associated Press. CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 19.—Three hundred employees of the Standard Drug Co. here will receive more than $9000 in Christmas bonuses. Thirty-two managers who have been with the company more than five years will receive the equivalent of two weeks' salary, while 283 other employees will receive an amount equal to one week's salary.

ST. CHARLES JAIL INTRUDER

Visitor Breaks In, but Apparently Takes Nothing.

The St. Charles County Jail in St. Charles was entered last night, but the intruder apparently remained only a few minutes, took nothing and did not communicate with any of the prisoners.

Awakened by a noise at 10:30 o'clock in his residence adjoining the jail, Sheriff Phelps grabbed a revolver and investigated. He found the door to the jail's boiler-room broken open and tracks leading through unoccupied cell quarters into his house and out the front door.

Park Seeks Extradition of Pair.

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 19.—Gov. Park has requested the extradition of Marvin Drake and Jesse Bryson from Birmingham, Ala., to Springfield, Mo., where they are wanted on charges of stealing a motor car Dec. 4 from James P. Winton.

JULIUS M. MERZ'S WILL FILED

He bequeathed $2000 to a nephew, Jean J. Merz; $1000 each to four other nephews, Russell and Clifford Hoffman and Edwin and Elmer Mueller, $2500 for the care of a cemetery lot, and divided the residue of his estate equally between his widow, Mrs. Alice Merz, 3125 Hawthorne boulevard, and a brother, Adolph Merz, 6010 Heege road, St. Louis County. For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This Remedy at Home

No Cooking! No Work! Real Saving!

You'll never know how quickly a severe cough following a cold can be conquered until you try this famous recipe. It is used in more homes than any other cough remedy, because it gives prompt, positive relief. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle pour 2½ ounces of Pinex, then add granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Syrup is easily made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. This gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money, and it's a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes fine.

Instantly you feel its penetrating effect. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm, clears the air passages and soothes and helps heal the inflamed membranes. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief in severe winter coughs. Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, used for generations for its quick effect on throat membranes. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

SEEKS $758,000 RFC
LOAN FOR ST. LOUIS

C. M. Hay Presents Plan to Finance Rail Approaches to Municipal Bridge.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 201-205 Kellogg Bldg.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. — City Counselor Charles M. Hay and Congressman John J. Cochran today put before the Reconstruction Finance Corporation a proposal under which the RFC would guarantee a loan of $758,000 that St. Louis is seeking to complete rail approaches to Municipal Bridge.

The Public Works Administration has tentatively approved this loan, but because its fund for non-Federal projects is virtually exhausted, the plan for co-operation with the RFC was proposed.

Under Hay's proposal, PWA would make the city an outright grant of $242,000, or 30 per cent of the cost of the work, and would lend the city $758,000 backed by the promise of the RFC to buy the bonds which St. Louis would issue for the amount of the loan.

RFC would make this purchase out of the $250,000,000 revolving fund set up by the last Congress. Hitherto no outright purchases have been made from this fund. The $60,000,000 in municipal and state bonds which RFC has taken over from PWA have been sold in each instance before RFC agreed to take them.

Stanley Reed, general counsel of the RFC, with whom Hay and Cochran conferred, agreed to take the plan under consideration. As now planned the bonds would not be issued while the bridge approaches were under construction to avoid interest charges during that period. Application for the loan was originally made to the RFC, but was taken to the PWA when that agency was empowered to make outright grants of 30 per cent of the cost of non-Federal projects in addition to loans.

Miss Thompson was burned in a similar accident two weeks ago, attributed by relatives to her unfamiliarity with the open-flame type of heating. She illustrated one of her father's books, "Children of the Cave."

PACIFIC ELECTRIC RAILWAY MAKES OFFER TO WORKERS

Company Officers and Union Men Agree to Meet for Discussion.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 19. — The Pacific Electric Railway announces it has offered concessions to its union employees who have voted to strike.

"An offer has been made by the Pacific Electric to make certain wage adjustment," said D. W. Pontius, president. "It has been met by a counter offer from the Employees' Committee, but so far neither has been accepted."

Company officers and union representatives will meet today to attempt to reach a settlement.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, through its vice-president, E. A. MacKenzie, announced that should the electric line trainmen walk out a sympathetic strike on three transcontinental railroads serving Los Angeles might be called.

Forty passengers were slightly injured last night when a street car was derailed by sympathizers of striking Los Angeles Railway Co. trainmen. Service of that company has not been interrupted by the three-week-old strike for higher wages.

CITY APPEALS FROM CHAIN STORE TAX DECISION

Judge Calhoun Made Injunction Against Collection of Levy Permanent.

The city yesterday appealed to the Missouri Supreme Court from the recent decision of Circuit Judge Calhoun, permanently enjoining enforcement of a chain-store tax ordinance.

The ordinance was adopted in 1932, but has not been enforced because of a temporary restraining order in a suit of chain-store firms affected by its provisions. Judge Calhoun held the measure was confiscatory and discriminatory in its terms, he said.

The suit originally was filed by the Kroger Grocery & Baking Co., but other firms intervened, filing pleas attacking the tax.

AVERAGES

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—A selling flurry in the first hour of trading gave the stock market a setback today from which it showed little disposition to recover as the day wore on.

The selling started in the public utility shares, with Consolidated Gas breaking to a new low coincident with a rumor of discussions in Washington of providing funds for a municipal plant to provide a "yardstick" to bring down New York City rates. Selling spread to other parts of the list, but soon subsided, and by early afternoon the list was quiet and a trifle above the lows. In bonds, U. S. Government securities were again firm.

Consolidated Gas and Public Service of N. J. dropped about 2 points before meeting support. C. P. Penney declined as much, and Allied Chemical slipped down 3. Losses of a point or so appeared in American Telephone, Bethlehem Steel, and A. N. S. Smelting. How Sound, and A. N. S. Smelting, while fractions receded, about 1/2 were shown by U. S. Steel, Low, and Sears Roebuck. Eastman moved up more than a point and oils, rails and motors, were steady, in the main.

The rate controversy has broken out afresh in New York City, with the effort of the companies to pass on the special city tax to consumers.

Some traders seemed disposed to take profits in merchandising shares, as the holiday trade season drew toward its close. A survey of its membership of department stores by the National Retail Dry Goods Association placed Christmas sales this year at 16 per cent above 1933, and the best since 1931. Some instances have placed the volume at the highest since 1930, including all types of stores.

Some of the road freight load reports for the week ended Saturday show further gains over 1933. New York Central reported 93,363 cars, against 90,331 in the same week of last year.

After a hasty nationwide survey of Christmas trade, the National Retail Dry Goods Association reported retail sales showed an average increase of 16 per cent over the same period of 1933.

According to the "Iron Age," the approach of the year-end holidays has failed to halt the upward trend of steel operations. It estimated the current operating rate of the industry at 35 1/2 per cent of capacity, a rise of 2 1/2 points from a week ago, making the ninth consecutive weekly advance.

Although part of the current expansion in output is attributable to replenishment of raw steel stocks, the review added, "this is not the case in all producing districts. In one important center mills have been forced to run on cold steel, the urgent needs of automobile makers."

A further substantial gain in electric power output last week was recorded by the Edison Electric Institute, making a new high total for the first four years. The increase was seasonal and the total 7.5 per cent higher than a year ago, compared with a gain of 7.7 the week before.

The British pound opened at $4.92 1/2, off 1/4 cent. French francs were off 1/100 of a cent at 6.60 1/2.

103 Eyes for an Eye.
Too Weak to Be Bad.
What's Unexpected Pleases.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(Copyright, 1934.)
"An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth" may suit old-fashioned "capitalistic" countries. It does not appeal to Russia. There, to avenge the killing of one man, Kiroff, Stalin's friend, 25 more have been shot, making a total of 103.

"One hundred three eyes for one eye, and 103 teeth for one tooth" is a high price, and the number killed may be increased.

There is serious discussion about Russia, that recently "walked right in" to "turn around and walk right out again."

William Green, head of the American Federation of Labor, says Communism threatens to become dangerous, with most of the danger in New York.

It was shown at a Washington hearing that "dividing up" is not all of modern Communists practice. They also collect. Employers and workers both testify that intelligent Communist management includes collecting substantial contributions from payrolls and wages.

Rumania's Parliament discussed a young lady with red hair named Magda Lupescu, for whom the Rumanian King, Carol, has shown some partiality. It was suggested in defense of King Carol that "his critics are too weak to be immoral." That new view of immorality would surprise several well known characters, including the good St. Anthony. It was not understood that the man who said he could "resist anything except temptation" was a person of unusual strength.

The unexpected is interesting, and is the essence of humor. Two old gentlemen, failing in their attempt to strike oil, retired to the poorhouse. In the poorhouse backyard they found first a good coal deposit, then struck oil.

Louis Mosenza of New Jersey went hunting deer, walked 20 miles, found nothing. At night he found a large deer hanging in his kitchen. He walked into the front yard, Mrs. Mosenza shot it.

Charles Dana Gibson, able artist, with friends went moose hunting, traveled far by buckboard in the Maine forest, found nothing, packed and drove back to the station. A big bull moose and two cows waited across the track. They could not get out their guns in time.

President Roosevelt, in an address to Congress, said that "the first that ever flew in a heavy-lift air plane, expresses well the importance of that achievement, presenting the President said, 'such tremendous possibilities that our experts have not been able as yet to tell their limitations or the full scope of their usefulness.'"

Perhaps President Roosevelt will write the proper authorities in army, navy and those that spend public money, suggesting that it is time for someone to wake up and try to realize part of the "full scope of airplane usefulness."

Catholic and Protestants in Germany unite in a pro-Deo "for God" movement to counteract the "Godless Bolshevik propaganda."

At the same time various religious authorities in Germany quarrel among themselves and the head government seeks to "Germanize" the Christian religion, annoyed perhaps by the idea that the "one God" should have been given to the world by the Jews.

Perfection, it seems, does not belong even to an Aryan, Nordic or whatever you call two-legged creatures with yellow hair and blue eyes. Germany discovers vile immorality in Berlin. Six hundred men have been arrested in the "better morals drive," many of them in the storm troops.

AFGHANISTAN DENIES BANDIT RAIDS ON PERSIAN BORDER

Embassy Asks Teheran Papers to Quit Rumors, but They Say Reports Are True.

TEHRAN, Persia, Dec. 19.—The Afghan Embassy yesterday denied reports of Afghan bandit raids along the boundary between Persia and Afghanistan, and requested Persian newspapers to discontinue publishing them, because they might strain relations between the two countries.

Persian newspapers printed the reports but added footnotes saying the dispatches—which related that 25 villages had been looted and 200 Persian border inhabitants captured—were true. The papers have been asking the Government to take military measures to halt the bandit raids, and not rely alone on political negotiations. They published reports that 25 villages had been looted this month, four of them in the Zorabed district.

It was said the 2000 border inhabitants reported captured had been herded into Afghan territory. Bandit gangs allegedly headed by Afghan officials and soldiers,

SOME RECIPES FOR CHRISTMAS DINNER

Take Choice of Goose or Turkey . . . By Gladys T. Lang

IN MOVIE LAND

By Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 18. SAMUEL GOLDWYN is so busy he has almost forgotten to keep up his reputation as Hollywood's best Mr. Malaprop (a reputation Sam encourages because he says the most expensive wits in the world have contributed to the collection of supposed Goldwyn Boners). On a recent Sam hasn't been his usual self because he has worked day and night to get that first Miriam Hopkins picture ready for the screen.

Miriam Hopkins Vina Delmar is writing an original, "Hands Across the Sea." Sam has okayed it, so has Miriam and now a cash and director will be chosen pronto. Love a young, at this writing, is leading the procession of younger motion picture actresses. Her performance in "White Parade" demonstrated that she has the necessary spark of dramatic genius. Cecil B. De Mille is, therefore, to be congratulated on getting her for the lead in "The Crusades."

Big Pow-Wow.

A big pow-wow is scheduled for next week when Harry Warner, A. W. Smith, general sales manager, Charles Enfield, head of advertising and publicity, and Jacob Wilk of the story department, all of them from the New York office of Warner Brothers, reach here. They will confer with Jack Warner on special exploitation and advertising of Marion Davies' pictures and all other cosmopolitan productions.

Casting.

THE biggest excitement of the moment on the Warner lot continues to be the preparation for "Mistakenly Yours." One by one the roles are being filled. Hippolyta has been handed over to Verree Teasdale, who is cutting a short visit in New York to play the part of Olivia de Havilland, who has been making public appearance in the East, arrived on the same train with Ian Hunter, the English actor who is being brought over here for this Verree Teasdale picture. The blond Gene Raymond doesn't look as if he had much fight in him, but that is where looks are deceiving. Gene had a three-picture contract with Columbia with the provision that he okay his stories. Something went wrong. Either Columbia didn't have stories suitable for him or he didn't like what he was offered. At any rate, Gene put his foot down and said that he and Columbia were through. So now RKO is negotiating with him.

Home Town.

Seattle is John Considine Jr.'s home town. That's where he first saw the light of day and where he spent most of his life. So-o-o-o, "Seattle," which is the title of a new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer contract after Nicholas Schenck saw his picture, will have its world premiere there on Jan. 17.

Snapshots.

THE grand rush is on among the film crowd to get reservations for the opening of the Santa Anita Racetrack Christmas day. Jack Whitney is planning to ship his thoroughbred here; the Clark Gables, the Bing Crosby, the Hal Roaches, Robert Montgomery, among those who have boxes for the opening day; lots of surprise parties, among the film crowd—Jim Gleason crack crack through with a nag; Clark Gable, Raoul Walsh, Mae West a few of the celebrities expected to enter their favorite ponies; absent-minded Anna Sten providing a laugh on her set when she walked on with one brown and one black horse; Robert Harding's acquaintance with Robert Jackson, to whom she was reportedly engaged, limited to one luncheon she had with him when he visited Hollywood.

New Romeo.

The male movie stars have a rival. His name is "Pinky" Tomblin. He has big flapping ears and wears gold-rimmed spectacles and you'd never suspect him of being a Romeo. Well, pinkie came from Oklahoma where he was a law student and a hog-caller. Got himself a job at the Billmore Bowl where everyone laughed at his lyrics until he produced "The Object of My Affections," a current song hit. Lucien Hubbard heard so much about Pinkie from his daughter, that he finally went and took a look at the wonder. Lucien had a test made of Tomblin who will play a part now in "Times Square."

Cheese Straws
Goose stuffed with Sauerkraut or Roasted Turkey with Dressing
Cranberry Surprise
Christ Brodt
Frozens Eggnog
English Plum Pudding
Christmas Cake
Dewey Sauce
Salted Nuts

The recipes:
OYSTERS ROCKEFELLER.
Have ready bread crumbs previously well buttered and browned in a skillet, which has been rubbed with a split clove of garlic. Open oysters, leaving on half shell and sprinkle generously with salt. Cover each oyster with one teaspoon of cocktail sauce and one teaspoon of the buttered crumbs and a square of uncooked bacon. Put under flame until oysters are well browned. Serve six oysters on a plate which has been covered with heated coarse salt. Delicious without the cocktail sauce, adding a little more butter in its place. If oysters on the half shell are not available, bulk oysters may be used, placing six or seven oysters in individual scallop shells and proceed in the same way.

CONSUMME WITH AVOCADO CUBES.

GOOSE STUFFED WITH SAUER-KRAUT.

Buy a young goose, under a year old. Wash well and rub the inside as well as the outside with salt. Fill with drained sauerkraut as it comes from the can. Sew up and dredge the goose lightly with flour and brown in a quick oven. When brown, reduce heat and turn goose with the breast down. Continue baking, basting every 10 or 15 minutes until done. For a 10-pound goose cook about two and a half hours.

CRANBERRY SURPRISE.

Cut unpeeled apples in one-inch slices and remove the core. Make a syrup with one cup of sugar and two cups of water, cooking for 10 minutes with one-half cup of red cinnamon candy. After cooking the 10 minutes add the apples and cook until tender but not long enough to lose their shape. Drain and spread on a platter to cool. Cook one quart of cranberries with one cup of water, two cups of sugar and one small can of crushed pineapple, for 15 minutes. Remove to bowl and let get perfectly cool. Top each apple slice with a large tablespoon of this and surround goose or turkey platter.

CHRIST BRODT.

One and one-half cups of flour.
One teaspoon of salt.
One cup of sugar.
Grated rind of one lemon.
One cup of white raisins.
One-eighth pound of citron (cut fine).
One-eighth pounds of orange peel (cut fine).
One-fourth pound of chopped blanched almonds.

Melt one-fourth pound of butter in one pint of scalded milk. When lukewarm add slowly to the above mixture, forming a batter, then beat in two slightly beaten eggs. Mix well, add one cake of yeast which has been dissolved in one-half cup of lukewarm water. Work in just enough flour to make soft dough that will not stick to the hands when kneading. Let stand overnight. Knead the next morning and place in bread pans two to three hours before baking. Bake for an hour and a quarter in a moderate oven. This amount will make two large loaves.

POINSETTIA SALAD.

Peel ripe Japanese persimmons. Cut down, but not the base, in sections to form petals. Spread open and in the center place small balls of seasoned cream cheese which have been rolled in chopped salted pistachio nuts. Place on a bed of watercress and cover with a highly seasoned French dressing.

FROZEN EGGNOG.

Two cups of milk.
Three-fourths cup of sugar.
Yolks of six eggs.
One-fourth teaspoon of salt.
Two and one-half cups of heavy cream.
Two tablespoons of rum.

AITHRA HOLLAND

Whites of two eggs.
Pinch of salt.
Put all together in a double boiler and beat constantly until the whites stand firm, which will take from seven to ten minutes. Add one teaspoon of vanilla, one cup each of chopped figs and dates and one-half cup of shaved Brazil nuts.

PLUM PUDDING.

One glass of whisky.
One pound of bread crumbs.
One pint of light brown sugar.
Five eggs.
One-half pound of butter.
One-half pound of citron.
One and one-half pounds of raisins, flour.
Two pounds of currants.
One ground nutmeg.
Cream the butter and sugar, add beaten eggs, milk, bread crumbs, fruit, finely sliced citron and spices. Steam in a buttered mold for five hours.

DEWEY SAUCE.

One and one-half cups of sugar.
One cup of water.
Four egg yolks.
Two teaspoons of Orange Curacao.
Four tablespoons of Jamaica rum.
Boil sugar and water for two minutes. Pour syrup slowly, while beating constantly, onto the well beaten egg yolks. Return to fire and cook, stirring constantly until mixture slightly thickens. Beat and cool and add flavoring.

Date Drop Cakes (Using Buttermilk).

One-third cup fat.
One cup sugar.
One egg.
One cup buttermilk.
One teaspoon cinnamon.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.
One teaspoon vanilla.
Two cups flour.
Two-thirds cup chopped dates.
One-third cup nuts (optional).
Cream fat and sugar. Add rest of ingredients and beat well. Half fill greased muffin pans and bake 15 minutes.

Puree of Potatoes.

Cook five potatoes and three stalks of celery cut into small pieces in one quart of chicken broth until tender. Rub all through a sieve. Soak one pint of milk with a slice of onion, a blade of mace and a bit of bay leaf. Strain and add three tablespoons each of butter and flour rubbed together. Cook for five minutes. Combine mixtures and season to taste with salt, pepper and paprika. A lovely start to the winter dinner or luncheon.

In the Sewing Room.

If you do a great deal of sewing you will find a typewriter chair a splendid find of equipment for the sewing room. It revolves, thereby letting you have the sewing machine on one side of you and your table on the other with no trouble at all to turn to either. Then it has a particularly comfortable and supporting back to it that will take away that kink you are prone to get now.

Things to Wear As Gift Ideas For Christmas

Gloves, Skating Outfits, Scarfs, Are Among Holiday Displays.

By Sylvia

ANYONE who can't find the answer to the question of what to give for Christmas gifts, had better resort to that never-failing solution of "something to wear." A young girl (and one not quite so young) will look very fetching in a hat and scarf set such as several St. Louis stores display. Plaid velvet is the material which wins the most admirers. One ensemble has a beret topped by a gay feather. The scarf is triangular shaped and seems to call for the additional gift of an initial pin.

Whether a girl is 10 or 20, she'll welcome a bright skating outfit. The snow or ski suits this season follow the same rule of style whether designed for the little tots or their elders. A striking color combination that most would like combines red, blue, black and white. The suit is blue, but over the shoulders are inserted sections of red and black. Tiny bands of white separate the colors.

The selection of a pair of gloves concerns more this year than a decision as to size. If a girl likes unusual and rather sports-like clothes, she'll prefer colored gloves of a novelty woolen knit. The addition of fur bows on the wrist will certainly not be amiss. For dress-up occasions, a velvet or velvet glove must have an initialed or a jeweled bracelet.

The college girl can do her lounging much more becomingly if she has a pair of very swanky pajamas. She'll like them warm and bright of color. If she's like most of the girls, checked velveteen that combines red and black or red and blue is most effective, especially when a natty one-piece pattern has been used.

A lady of leisure who prides herself on looking dainty at all hours will delight to own a chiffon negligee that is laden down with coo feathers. Choice of several shades are available, but the most luscious is a delicate shade of rose. The feathers which decorate the neckline and the draped sleeves have been dyed to match the velvet.

An evening gown for gala holiday events will prove a welcome gift to the girl whose engagement book always is bulging. But you'd better take her along when you buy this, else the shade or the style may be wrong. Among the newcomers in formal attire is a ombre shaded gown. It is a dress of various colored and designed. Shades of rose that range from very faint pink to a deep American beauty suggest gay Christmas parties. This dress has a very high collar and a bias fold which makes revers to the waistline at the back. The skirt is gored and slightly trained.

The more fur that boudoir slippers have, the more certain you can be of their fashion rightness. Some lovely pairs are almost covered with white rabbit's fur. This forms a band at the top, or rather a cuff, which turns down so far it almost reaches the sole. Velvet is a popular fabric in combination with this trimming, especially when a deep shade is chosen.

A cape and muff set of a hand-some not only can be worn for smart daytime occasions but be equally as handsome for evening. One St. Louis furrier recommends sables for such an ensemble, if you don't mind getting into high figures. The cape is shaped so that it fits snugly over the shoulders and resembles an Eton jacket. The muff is shaped like a miniature barrel.

A muff pocketbook shaped like a football should cheer from the little girl who is sufficiently fortunate to receive it. This clever accessory is made of calfskin, light brown of color and laced at the side with a darker shade of brown. A braided cord that is looped securely to the lining eliminates some of the dangers of losing this gift.

Style Note One of the best of the new winter shirers is a demure frock of raspberry net, with tiered shoulder cape, a lored turnover collar with a tie, fitted bodice and long-flowing skirt. It is worn with a silver lame wrap and silver jewelry accessories.

GIVE YOURSELF THIS "HORSE SENSE" TEST

Note.—Government civil service employees are protesting because they have to pass a "camera eye" test. They are permitted to study a simple picture, like above, for five minutes and then submit to questioning. You can test yourself. Rivet your attention on the above picture for five minutes. Are you riveting? Now, close your eyes, open your mouth and answer back in reply to the following questions—

1. Was the man with the lawn-mower wearing earmuffs and long underwear?
2. Why is the lady using a vacuum cleaner outside when she has a sink full of breakfast dishes inside?
3. When a fella sends his girl a mustache cup packed in a Tiffany box why do they call him a Christmas card?

I'd about a most emphatic "yes" to those who would annihilate The guy who tries to soothe distress by ad lib homilies on fate.

According to an announcement, the automobile industry is now using 67 per cent of the nation's brass.
And Huey Long is apparently using the other 33 per cent.

Governor Murray, Oklahoma, released a life term bank bandit and slayer for six days, without a guard, so the prisoner could go quail hunting.
The news dispatches didn't say whether or not the hunter used a machine gun.

It must have been a struggle for the guy to refrain from looking to see if any of the quail had wandered into a bank.

He could have said he was merely trying to flush a quail out of a cashier's toupes.

Miscellaneous Problems of Social Usage

Parental Restrictions Should Be Explained to Friends Without Criticism.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post: OTHER thinks I am too young to go out with boys. I am sixteen. I don't know what to tell boys who ask me because all the girls in school are allowed to go to a movie with them or to a school dance?

Answer: Unless you can persuade your mother that she is unreasonably strict in not even letting you go to a school dance or to a movie on Saturday afternoon, with a boy she knows all about, then the only thing to do is to frankly explain that your mother does not want your studies interfered with—whatever reason she prefers that you give. Naturally you must not criticize her to your friends, show that will not only make others criticize her still more, but criticize you for your disloyalty. Maybe in a little while she may realize that it is out of the nursery.

Dear Mrs. Post: We are adopting a very young baby soon and a great many of our relatives will live far away would I am sure happy to know about it. Please don't suggest that I write notes in this list because it is endless, is there no way, similar to the usual little card tied to the parents' card, to announce an adoption?

Answer: On a fairly small plain marked card (either engraved or printed) it would be quite proper to announce the new baby in this way: Mr. and Mrs. John Jones have great pleasure in announcing the adoption of a baby, named Rose Marie, aged two months eighteen days.

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I want to ask about 40 of the friends of ours whom we know to our house to a surprise party for him on his birthday. Just how should we write the invitations?

Answer: Write on your visiting card "Surprise party for father and the time and date in the lower left corner. If you said "Birthday party" this would rather suggest bringing a present, don't you think?

My dear Mrs. Post: Perhaps it's not necessary but isn't it considered a gracious thing to do to send a hostess flowers on the day of her party if one has to send one's regrets to her invitation?

Answer: It is always a gracious thing to send flowers to a hostess. If, after having accepted, one is obliged to give out (which only a serious cause can excuse), sending flowers is a very appropriate gesture of courtesy.

SHELBYVILLE, Tenn.,—Five hundred Tennessee Guardsmen are here today to quell further racial outbreaks following disturbances yesterday which two men were killed and seven were wounded when a mob tried to enter a Negro, who already had been estimated at $350,000. Dr. James L. Morton, Health Officer, said he was called to the mob intended to enter Bedford County Jail, after being him a chance to remove 200 prisoners. Dr. Morton would take advantage of the offer. The mob set fire to the morning for the firing of the but this hour passed without threat's help carried out crowd, partly dispersed, was a threatening mood, 100 shots being heard.

Forming of Mob.
The mob started forming 9 a. m. as E. K. Haffig, the only Negro, went on trial in Court for assault on a 14-year-old girl. Judge T. L. C. was presiding. At that time, men were stationed outside the courthouse. Some sporadic shots, mostly with stones and bombs, occurred during the morning.

At 11:45 the mob made an attack. An unidentified man on the head with a brick. The attackers were repulsed by gas bombs. With drawn bayonets, the mob held the mob at bay until 2 p. m. A guard officer waved his gun and summoned the mob in front to address it. The mob gathered close and fighting with Edwards, 30-year-old house painter, fell, the first to be shot and bayoneted. Others in the crowd turned and fled. One man failed to reach its of the east door of the courthouse.

Troops Enter Courthouse.
Into the public square at the building the rioters returned. Meanwhile, the county ordered into the county by Col. John R. Stark of the state command.

In the courtroom, preliminary steps toward putting the trial had been going forward. However, with a jury called, Judge Coleman ordered a recess.

Forty-five minutes later the recess began. This time the mob came in from the street and seized a heavy bench and downed the doors. The opened fire with 45-caliber pistols and riot guns.

Dead Man Carried Away.
A man later identified as Fawcett was shot through the head and fell eight feet from the top of the concrete below. As the crowd became general, men were shot. For the third time, the mob was carried away. Members of the mob were wounded in the feet. Dr. Patterson was shot in the leg. W. M. Clayton was shot in the side and head. Blakes was shot in the foot.

Judge Declares Mistrial.
At 3 p. m. the court recessed. Judge Coleman declared a mistrial, dismissing the jury. The Adjutant-General told that he could handle the situation as to have the trial, but might result in the killing of 100 people, said the
